HAIR IN SKIFF BILLY BROWN'S SAYS SISTER

She Takes Lock From Prayer Book to Identify Strand in Cleat.

JURORS EXAMINE BOAT

Medical Testimony Will Complete State's Evidence Against Gillette.

INSANITY MAY BE PLEA

Accused's Father Is Said to Be Gillette Only by Adoption.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 24.—With some medical testimony concerning the condition of Grace Brown's body, the State will end its case against Chester E. Gillette, who is on trial here charged with the murder of the girl. Interest has now shifted to the plea the defense will make and where so much interest lies there is naturally a crop of rumors. The lawyers for the defense, however, are maintaining silence on this point to the last and just what they will claim will probably not be known until their opening address is made.

This, it is expected, will come Monday. It seems probable Gillette will take the stand in his own defense, if the defense puts in any testimony at all. He alone can tell what actually happened in the fatal boat, but if he goes on the stand he will put himself in a position to receive a searching cross-examination. Gillette's action in this respect depends on his lawyers, in whom he appears to repose every confidence.

The skiff in which Gillette took "Billy" Brown out on Big Moose Lake on July 11, and which was found overturned in South Bay, near the girl's drowned body the following afternoon, was one of the sensational exhibits yesterday.

The jury saw the craft exactly as it was taken from the water and they saw clinging to a seat near its middle thwart a strand of light brown hair, said to have been that of the girl. Each of the twelve men climbed in and out of the boat as it lay on the courtroom floor and, under the guidance of the District Attorney, examined it closely.

Had to Tear It Free.

Later, Mrs. Andrew Morrison, wife of the proprietor of the Hotel Glenmore at Big Moose, from whom the boat was rented, told how she had torn from the heads of two screws in the skiff a lock of the girl's hair. It was so firmly caught, she testified, that she had to tear it free.

To identify the hair the District Attorney put Frances Brown, "Billy's" favorite sister, on the stand. Frances carried a prayerbook and from between its leaves produced another lock of hair, tied with baby ribbon.

"That is 'Billy's' hair," said the sister in a plaintive tone. "I cut it from her head when they brought her back to us dead. It was for remembrance sake."

There was a vigorous but futile objection on the part of Gillette's lawyers when the hair found in the boat and the lock produced by Frances Brown were handed from one juror to another to compare. The District Attorney next offered testimony as to the condition of "Billy" Brown's body when taken from the lake.

The State will hold that Gillette killed "Billy" Brown in the bottom of the skiff and then dropped the body overboard. It will also be contended that after ridding himself of the girl he rowed ashore to a point 135 feet eastward of the spot, removed his dress suitcase and racquet, upset the boat and waded out for at least 100 feet in the shallow water, where he set the craft adrift.

Insanity Plea Discussed.

Further, the District Attorney will expect the jury to believe that Gillette stretched "Billy" Brown's silk coat on the boat's bottom, and as a final act threw his straw hat into the water to lend color to the appearance that the craft had upset accidentally and both occupants drowned.

There is a report that the defense might enter a plea of temporary insanity, claiming there had been insanity among Gillette's maternal ancestors. The State is ready for this. Gillette's antecedents are said to have been traced, and it is asserted his father is a Gillette only by adoption. The father has been known as the son of Albertus Gillette and Harriet Osborne. They had neighbors at East Scott who are reported to remember when Frank Gillette was adopted at the age of 2 years. The insanity is said to have been on the Osborne side. It is not thought a verdict will be reached for several days.

BURTON CAN SWEAR OFF.

Insolvency Oath Would Relieve Him of Fine.

If former United States Senator Burton of Kansas, now a Federal prisoner in the Ironton Jail, refuses to pay the fine of $2500 which was imposed on him in addition to the jail sentence, he may have to serve 30 days extra for the costs. It is said that he can avoid paying the fine by taking an oath of insolvency.

The Department of Justice Friday asked District Attorney Dyer when the fine was to be collected. Col. Dyer referred the matter to Assistant District Attorney Johnson. A necessary step will be the issuance of an execution directed to the United States Marshal in the district where Burton is said to own property. His home is at Abilene, Kan.

STILWELL OPPOSES REBATE.

Rebater Should Get 50 Years, Magnate Says.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 24.—Arthur E. Stilwell, president of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad, addressing the Railroad Club here last night, denounced the practice of rebating. He said:

"Of all the crimes in the whole category, the rebating crime is the most unjust. Rebating strikes at the people—the fountain head of the rights delegated to the average railroad. The hired assassin of old may be pictured as a white-robed saint compared to the rebater. Rebating is a crime for which no punishment is too severe. I'd like to see the rebater get 20, yes 50, years in the Penitentiary."

MUST PROVE INNOCENCE TO BE REINSTATED

Secretary Shaw Says That Tellers Dyer and Ferguson Must Do This.

WANTS FACTS FIRSTHAND

Secretary of the Treasury Is Making Personal Investigation.

MAKING FULL INQUIRY

Secretary Is Anxious to Learn Just How Money Was Taken and Spent.

Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, who is in St. Louis making a personal investigation of the Subtreasury shortage of $61,500, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday that before Receiving Teller D. P. Dyer Jr. and Paying Teller Marshall B. Ferguson could be reinstated in the former positions they would have to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that they were innocent of any connection with the embezzlement of the Government's money.

"Of course," said the secretary, "if this missing money should be found and restored to the Government it would be only just that Receiving Teller Dyer and Paying Teller Ferguson should be reinstated.

"If the Government, however, proves beyond a reasonable double that they are responsible for the shortage they will have to go elsewhere."

Secretary Shaw, in speaking of the matter, referred to both Dyer and Ferguson. He was asked specifically as to the status of Ferguson in the present investigation, but refused to say what action would likely be taken in regard to him. Dyer is now under indictment, charged with the embezzlement of the $61,500.

Making Rigid Inquiry.

That Secretary Shaw is trying to get to the bottom of the Subtreasury tangle is apparent from his movements since reaching S. Louis. He took breakfast at the Southern Hotel Saturday with Judge Selden P. Spencer and they talked of little else than the shortage. Secretary Shaw is anxious to find out exactly how the money was taken and what use was made of it. During the breakfast hour he and Judge Spencer discussed the probable ways in which the money was taken.

Leaving the Southern Hotel at 9 a. m. Secretary Shaw went directly to the office of Frederick W. Lehmann, special counsel for the Government in the prosecution of the case. He said that after the conference with Mr. Lehmann he would again visit the Subtreasury and gather up additional information concerning the conditions in the office.

"I have no idea when the case will go to trial," said the secretary. "As head of the Treasury Department I am naturally interested deeply in this affair. I have had the report of Assistant United States Treasurer Akins, and of the special commission that we sent here from Washington to make an investigation, but I thought that I could get a better understanding of the matter if I made a personal investigation.

"That is as much as I care to say about the case at present. I shall spend the day here looking over matters pertaining to the shortage, and will leave tonight for Pittsburg. I am expected there Monday to attend the dedication of a public building."

Silent on Currency Reform.

Secretary Shaw was asked regarding currency reform and whether he had discussed the subject with Charles H. Huttig, president of the Third National Bank, who was a member of the Currency Commission of the American Bankers' Association.

"I have not a word to say about currency reform," he said. "I did not mention the matter to Mr. Huttig."

"You are of course familiar with the plan formulated by the commission. What do you think of it?"

"I should say I am very familiar with it. But I am not going to express an opinion about it."

"The negro troops question is"——

"Well, now, doesn't that beat the world?" said Secretary Shaw, breaking in before the question could be finished. "Of course I can't talk about that. That is the President's affair and not mine. I know nothing about it, and would not say anything about it if I did.

"Just say that I am in St. Louis on personal business—just dropped in here to meet old acquaintances, and let it go at that."

Before leaving the hotel John Kennish, Assistant Attorney-General, was introduced to Secretary Shaw by Judge Spencer as the Republican in Missouri next in importance to Attorney-General Hadley. After meeting some lawyers and personal friends, Secretary Shaw left the hotel on his round of investigation of the Subtreasury shortage.

Before leaving St. Louis Secretary Shaw will endeavor to get all the information possible about the status of affairs in the local Subtreasury.

Secretary Shaw had an hour's conference with Edward J. McHugh, chief of the Secret Service Bureau in St. Louis. Part of the time Subtreasurer Thomas J. Akins was present. At the conclusion of the conference Mr. Shaw declined to say what matters had been under discussion, though it is believed that he was getting first hand information from the secret service chief regarding the shortage. Neither McHugh nor Akins would talk about what transpired in the office.

Formal visits were made to several other offices in the Federal Building by the Secretary of the Treasury.

WHEELS NEAR HIS HEAD.

Driver Falls From Wagon and Under a Car.

George Werner, 53 years old, living at 2907 Texas avenue, had a narrow escape from the wheels of a street car Saturday.

He was driving a team of horses, and in crossing the car tracks at Ninth and Barry streets fell from the wagon across the car tracks. His team kept on going until they reached the gutter.

J. B. Stevens, motorman of a southbound Cherokee car, saw him lying across the track and stopped the car in time to keep the wheels from passing over his head.

BARRINGTON'S FORMER WIFE IN A ROMANCE

Miss Wilhelmina Grace Cochrane Engaged, Is Is Said, to Naval Lieutenant

HE LEAVES FOR MEMPHIS

License for Marriage Is Denied to Man at Belleville.

SHE DIDN'T GO ALONG

Couple Also Wanted the Ceremony Performed in Missouri.

A second romance has come into the life of Wilhelmina Grace Cochrane, who as a young girl, still in her teens, four years ago, was cruelly disillusioned after a few days of married life with the bogus "Lord" F. Seymour Barrington, now under sentence of death in the Clayton Jail for the murder of his benefactor, James P. McCann.

Friends of Miss Cochrane believe she has become or is about to become the wife of Ellis B. Miller, a naval lieutenant, who for the last six months has been stationed at the recruiting office in St. Louis.

It is known that a man giving his name as Ellis B. Miller went to the County Clerk's office in Belleville late Friday and asked for a license to wed Miss Wilhelmina Grace Cochrane of St. Louis.

Miss Cochrane, since her divorce and the restoration of her maiden name has been living at a rooming-house on Westminster place, near Sarah street, and has been employed as a saleswoman by a downtown department store.

At the boarding-house Saturday it was said that she no longer lives there. She resigned her position at the department store Friday.

At the recruiting office in the Federal building Saturday it was said that Lieut. Miller left St. Louis Friday night for Memphis. Miss Cochrane's friends believe she has gone there to join her fiance.

Mrs. R. R. Elliott of 1009 Walton avenue refused Saturday to discuss the rumored wedding. Neighbors say that Miller first met Miss Cochrane last May, and that he has shown devoted attention to her since that time.

Duped by Barrington.

Miss Cochrane, at the age of 19, had one of the saddest experiences which can come into the life of a trusting woman when she was duped by the bogus Lord Barrington three years ago.

Barrington, cruising on the sea of adventure and sailing easy on his borrowed rank, engaged a room at the home of Miss Cochrane's sistter, Mrs. R. R. Elliott, in West Belle place.

Miss Cochrane at that time lived in Kansas City, Kan., and was visiting her sister. The bogus Lord's courtship lasted only four days and the wedding took place Jan. 22, 1903, just 15 days after the first meeting.

Five days later members of the Cochrane family learned that Barrington was an impostor and there was a stormy scene at the Elliott home on the night of Jan. 27, 1903, when James F. Cochrane, a brother of the young bride, kicked Barrington through the front door.

Barrington was arrested on a charge using fraud in winning the love of Miss Cochrane and was fined $500, in default of which he was sentenced to serve six months in the Workhouse.

On April 11 he was released on parole. For a time he attracted attention as manager of a downtown saloon. Three months after his release from the Workhouse he was arrested on a charge of murdering McCann.

He was convicted in the St. Louis County Circuit Court at Clayton and is now in the Jail there under sentence of death, awaiting the outcome of his final appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

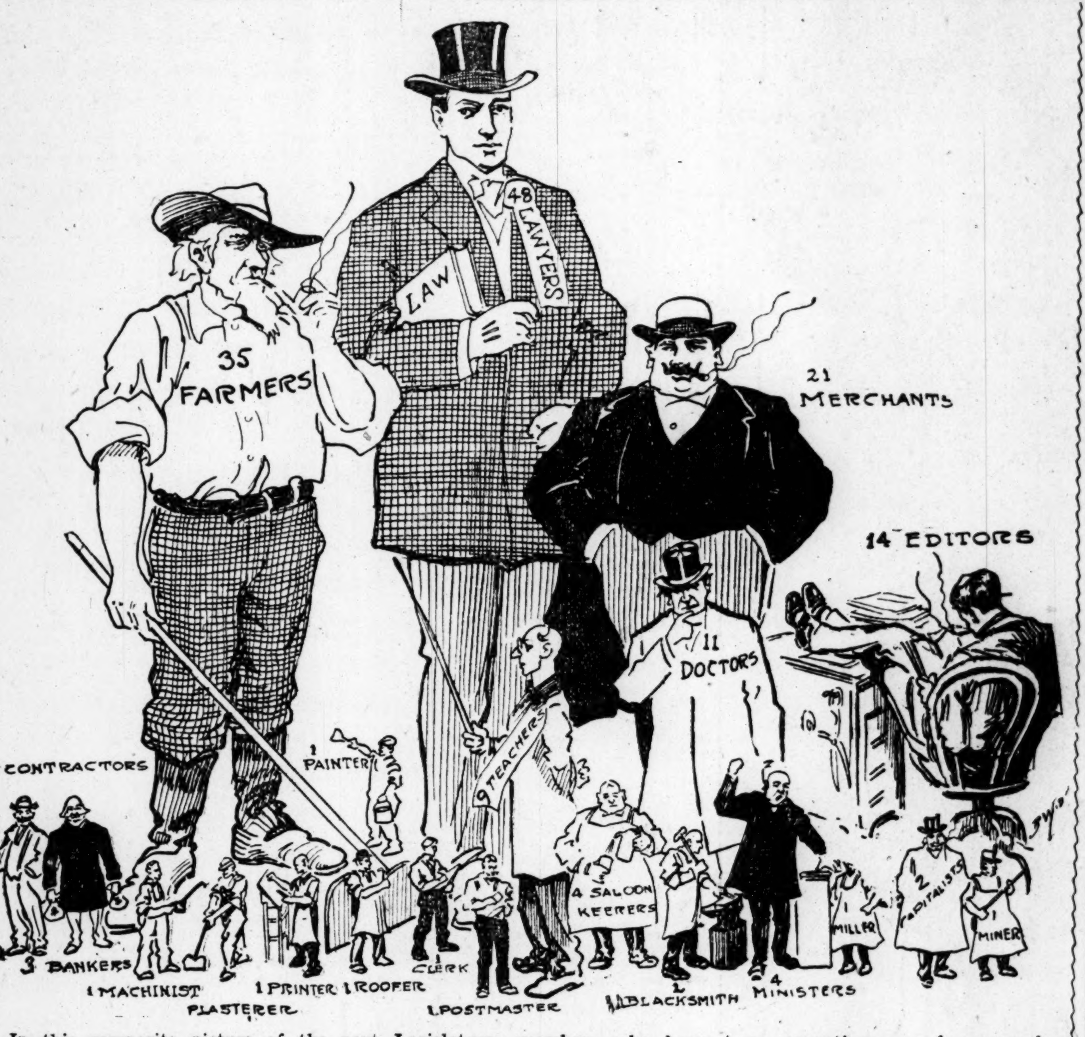
HERE YOU SEE THE KIND OF MEN WHO WILL MAKE MISSOURI'S LAWS



In this composite picture of the next Legislature, members who have two occupations, as for example, farmer and lawyer, are listed as of the calling to which they give the most attention.

MISSOURI'S laws will be made with plenty of help from lawyers at the 1907 session of the Legislature. In the Senate the lawyers have a long numerical lead on all other occupations and professions, while in the House of Representatives the farmers are a little ahead.

Secretary of State Swanger, who has been making a roster of the next Legislature, has found that in the House there will be 29 farmers and 27 lawyers. Editors and merchants come next, with 13 each. There will be 10 physicians. There will be four members who divide their time between teaching and farming, three saloonkeepers, three teachers, three abstractors, two ministers, two farmers and ministers, two farmers and merchants, two farmers and lawyers, two blacksmiths, two bankers, two contractors, two farmers and real estate agents, and one of each of the following: Insurance agent, president of street sprinkling company, medicine manufacturer, lawyer and minister, miller, machinist, real estate agent, roofer, miner, mine superintendent, college professor, merchant and teacher, druggist, postmaster, printer, cigar dealer, solicitor, grocer and painter.

Representative Muir of Lewis County is the college president, and Representative Settle of Wayne County is the postmaster.

In the Senate there will be 18 lawyers, four farmers, three merchants and one of each of the following: Editor, clerk, capitalist, president of construction company, plasterer, banker and lawyer, physician, salesman and saloonkeeper.

Senator Tom Connor of Jasper County, a millionaire, is classed as a capitalist, and will be the first millionaire, it is said, to occupy a seat in Missouri's Senate.

CHURCH APPROVED 5 WIVES, HE SAYS

Mormon Head, Fined on Statutory Charge, Explains to Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 24.—Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon Church, who was fined $300 in the District Court here yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge of unlawful cohabitation, in addressing the Court said that all five of his marriages were entered into with the sanction of his church and, as they believed, with the approval of the Lord. According to his faith and the law of the church they were all eternal in duration.

He said that in the general understanding that was had in 1890 regarding what were classed as old cases of cohabitation he appreciated the magnanimity of the American people in not enforcing a policy that in their minds was harsh, but which assigned the settlement of this difficult problem to the onward progress of time.

He also said that when he had accepted the manifesto issued by President Wilford Woodruff he did not understand that he would be expected to abandon his wives and that, knowing the obligations he had assumed by reason of these marriages, he had tried to discharge the responsibilities attending them without being offensive to anyone.

FAIR SATURDAY, CLOUDY SUNDAY

HERE, HERE YOU! DONT SHOVE, ID LIKE TO HAVE A LOOK AT THE BEARS MYSELF!

The two little bear cubs in the Post-Dispatch window were very happy today, for if there is anything baby bears like better than milk and being petted, it is basking in the sun. The official forecast:

"Fair Saturday and Saturday night; Sunday increasing cloudiness; light rain Sunday night; easterly winds; minimum temperature tonight 36 degrees."

All over the Southwest storms are reported. In Texas there have been several severe rainfalls. In the Northwest States the temperature is rising, while in all the Eastern States the weather is getting colder.

LITTLE BEARS CAN NOW ENTER THE ZOO

Children of St. Louis Have Purchased the Liberty of Two Orphan Cubs—Thousands of Boys and Girls See Them Eat and Play in Front Window of the Post-Dispatch Office—Will Be Turned Over to Mr. Aull Tonight.

THE children of St. Louis have bought the two little cub bears, for the purchase of which they have contributed during the past week, and the bears will be turned over to Mr. Robert Aull, Park Commissioner, Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Mr. Aull will select the names of the bears, and these will be put on a brass plate at the bearhouse in Forest Park Zoo with the statement that the bears were presented to the Zoo by the children of St. Louis.

At noon today more than 2000 children had contributed $140, and a large number of letters were still unopened at that time. As many letters as possible will be printed today and others will appear in the Sunday paper. As the purchase price has been practically raised, we shall have to ask the children to cease their contributions.

You have done nobly, and you can always feel that you are part proprietors with the city of the two little bears.

Mr. Aull will want to look over the names in the letters printed in the Post-Dispatch Saturday and Sunday, but we hope to be able to tell you Monday the names upon which he has decided. The bears will remain in the Post-Dispatch window Saturday afternoon.

Letters from the children today will be found on page 10.

DAMM FAMILY TROUBLES.

One Brother Says Cabman Got $3 for Short Ride.

Arthur McFall, a cab driver, was discharged in the City Hall Police Court Saturday following a seemingly profane trial on the charge of demanding $3 from Union Station to the brothers from Union Station to the Central Dispensary and the Four Courts. Fred C. Damm of 4529 Labadie avenue, the complaining witness, did not see his brother, Ed Damm of Cannelton, Ind., pay the cabman and McFall was discharged in the absence of Ed Damm, who had returned to his home.

Fred Damm testified that he and Ed Damm were taking their brother Gus to a hospital and had stopped at the Four Courts to ask the way. They discharged the cabman there and he said his brother paid the man $3 for 15 minutes' service. Fred Damm said Ed Damm told him it was a damned outrage and they had the cabman arrested.

MOROCCO GETS ULTIMATUM.

Powers Demand Immediate Restoration of Order.

TANGIER, Nov. 24.—The members of the diplomatic corps today drew up a collective note to the Moroccan Government, describing the intolerable situation of affairs in Tangier and demanding that immediate measures be taken to restore order.

LAREW CASE SUBMITTED.

Disbarment Proceedings Depend on Point of Law.

The disbarment proceedings against Attorney William P. Larew, who was convicted of embezzling money from a client and sent to the Penitentiary for two years, and pardoned unconditionally by Gov. Folk after serving a few months, were submitted to the Circuit Court Saturday on an agreed statement of facts.

The single point of law upon which the case rests is whether the Governor's pardon terminates the proceedings against Larew, or whether, in view of it, they can be maintained.

Larew was convicted in the criminal courts of St. Louis June 29, 1904, and the Supreme Court affirmed the decision Nov. 21, 1905. Members of the local bar are much interested in the law point involved in the case.

Maj. Gilleas to Resign.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 24.—Maj. Michael Gilleas, third vice-president of the Illinois Central Railroad, announced today that he would resign and go to California to live. W. L. Smith, recently appointed Memphis agent and personal representative of President Harahan, has taken over practically all work devolving on Gilleas. Maj. Gilleas has been with the Illinois Central 48 years, starting as a messenger boy. He was assigned to the Memphis office 15 years ago.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 24.—The Yale team went into today's big game with a slight advantage in weight. The average of the Yale men was about 189, and that of Harvard was 184.

It was announced that Knox could not play and that Kersberg would start in the Harvard lineup. If the latter's lameness was bad, Warren would go in without delay in his place.

Final Score—Yale 6, Harvard 0.

Capt. Morse of Yale won the toss and chose the north goal, giving him a slight advantage of the breeze. The teams took the field.

Knox and Howard Jones were in Yale's line-up.

Burr kicked to Veeder at Yale's seven-yard line. It was carried back to the 28-yard line, where the first attempt at the line was stopped. McDonald got the ball on Yale's 45-yard line. On a fake play through the line Starr got the ball on a forward pass and made 20 yards around Forbes' end. A play through right tackle, Lincoln carrying it, gave five yards. Then Wendell made three more, the ball being nearly in front of the goal posts. Newall dropped back for a try at goal, but it was blocked, the ball bounding along the ground to Yale's 45-yard line, Forbes being down on it at that point. Yale tried the Crimson line, but failed to gain. The ball went back to Tad Jones for an end run, but he was nailed for a loss.

Yale lost 15 yards for offside play. Veeder punted to Harvard's 48-yard line, but Newhall made no gain on the run back. On a triple pass Lincoln put the ball on his own 50-yard line. Four yards more came by playing through the right tackle, but Yale smothered the next play. Lincoln was off-side and a five-yard penalty was given to Harvard. Lincoln made four yards inside of left end.

Burr punted to Yale's 35-yard line, and the Harvard ends were under it and got the ball because of a fumble, but the referee called the teams back and inflicted 15 yards on Harvard for holding.

Burr, on his own 20-yard line, punted to Yale's 45-yard line, but Tad Jones, in spite of throwing off half a dozen men, could not gain more than two yards.

Knox Couldn't Gain.

Knox twice was called upon to carry the ball, but the Harvard men nailed him with only a yard gain each time. Veeder, from his own 45-yard line, punted to behind Harvard's goal line. Burr brought the ball into the 20-yard line. Howard Jones retired and Alcott took his place.

Burr kicked into Yale's 45-yard line, where Knox made a spectacular run to Harvard's 20-yard line. Yale then drove the ball through Harvard's right guard for four yards and then two more, getting the ball almost in front of goal post an the 11-yard line.

One yard was necessary and Yale made it for first down. Second down gave them one yard, but Harvard smothered the next line play.

The ball was given a forward pass to Alcott, who was on Harvard's four-yard line. He fumbled and McDonald got it. Burr punted to his own 30-yard line, where Knox fumbled. Then a Harvard man missed. Knox recovered it.

Veeder dropped back for a kick, but instead ran with it, and passed it over the end to Harvard's 10-yard line. Wendell got it in the general mix-up. Wendell shot through the line on the next play and carried several men on his back to his own 35-yard line. Foster went through for five more. Then Wendell went through for four more. Newhall's on-side kick gave Yale the ball on her own yard line. Veeder got five yards outside of left tackle.

A double pass gave knox a chance for an on-side kick, and the ball went to Harvard's 20-yard line and in a general mix-up Yale got the ball.

Tad Jones made a sensational run the breadth of the field, twisting in and out among the Harvard men in grand style, but it did not net much ground.

Harvard was penalized for Lincoln's holding, but Yale retained the ball instead of Harvard losing distance. Then Yale lost five yards for holding.

Jones attempted an end-run, but Parker got through and downed him for a loss of five yards. Veeder attempted a drop kick from the 40-yard line, but the ball went wide by a few yards. Burr punted to Bigell on his own 50-yard line and the ball made five yards on a line play with Morse carrying the ball after Bigelow had run it back for seven yards on the catch.

Knox made an on-side kick to Harvard's 20-yard line, where Forbes got it. Roome replaced Knox, and on his first play made no gain.

Harvard was given five yards because of Yale's holding.

Veeder, on a fake kick, threw the ball to Forbes at Harvard's four-yard line.

One yard was gained on a mass play. On the next play Roome was shot over the line for the first touchdown. There was wild enthusiasm on the Yale side.

Veeder kicked goal.

Score—Yale, 6; Harvard, 0.

Burr kicked off over Yale's goal line and the ball was brought in for a free punt from the 25-yard line.

Burr got the ball on his own 50-yard line and carried it 16 yards. Newhall, on a quarterback kick, sent the ball to Yale's 20-yard line.

On a fake kick Yale gained three yards. Then Jones made a 20-yard end run.

A fumble behind Yale's line was turned into a double pass, but there was no gain and the whistle blew for the end of the first half with the ball on Yale's 35-yard line.

Score at end of first half: Yale 6, Harvard 0.

MEDICINE MAKER AN EDDY FOLLOWER

Oscar Wakefield, Buried at Bloomington, Conducted Large Factory.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 24.—The funeral of Oscar L. Wakefield, a wealthy manufacturer, was held here today. Mr. Wakefield, while president of a large proprietary medicine concern, was a Christian Scientist and stuck steadfastly to the faith, it is said, throughout his last illness.

The Wakefield Medicine Co., of which he was president, was founded and conducted for many years by Mr. Wakefield's father, who died leaving a fortune and an established business. The latter had been conducted since the elder Wakefield's death by the son, Oscar Wakefield, who died here Thursday.

It is a well-known fact of the Christian Science faith to grant everyone the freedom of his own belief. He regarded it as no violation of the principles to supply to those who insisted upon it, drugs or medicines which the patient believed would remedy his bodily ills.

Mr. Wakefield died of Bright's disease and one of the products of his factory is a remedy for this malady. It is not recorded that the president ever tried this remedy in his own case.

GIRL GAVE FALSE ALARMS.

Policeman's Daughter Didn't Know It Was Wrong.

Josephine Shelton, 12 years old, daughter of Policeman Edmund Shelton of the Carr Street Station, was brought before Judge Bishop in the Juvenile Court Saturday, charged with ringing false fire alarms.

She was accompanied by her father to court. She said that she rang up the alarm without knowing what it was.

Friday afternoon, she told the Judge, she left her home at 4437 Maffitt avenue and went to see a friend. Passing the corner of Cote Brilliante and Spring avenues, she saw a girl who was with a little boy, put her hand into one of the fire-alarm boxes and pull down the hook.

She said she went to her friend's house, and on her way home later went to the box and pulled down the hook as she had seen the other girl do. The whirring frightened her, and she left the corner and went to a grocery.

A few minutes later she went back to the corner and there saw the engines. After someone had pointed her out, a policeman took her to the Juvenile Court.

Judge Bishop, after hearing the girl's story, dismissed the charge on payment of costs by her father.

CORONER HOLDS WOMAN.

Jury Blames Her for Death of Mrs. Keithley.

A Coroner's jury returned a verdict Saturday holding Mrs. Carrie Hafemeister of 1443½ St. Louis avenue responsible for the death of Mrs. Annie H. Keithley of 2718 North Eleventh street. Mrs. Keithley died in Mrs. Hafemeister's home Nov. 23, after an operation. Mrs. Hafemeister was placed in the holdover at the Four Courts. She is [illegible] years old. Mrs. Keithley was 32.

RLY'S BOND FIXED AT LESS THAN SHORTAGE

Circuit Attorney Plans to Require $5000; Employers Lost $5100.

SLID DOWN STRAWSTACK

Told Detective Who Found Him That He Was Glad to Return Home.

Charles H. Everly, confessed embezzler, whom Miss Isabelle Renick, a blond young woman, who has an elegantly furnished flat at 4364A West Belle place, declares to be "just the kind that can make every woman love him," is expected to be released before Sunday on bond furnished by members of the St. Louis Bowling Association, to which he belonged. The bond will be fixed at $5000, it was stated in the Circuit Attorney's office. This nearly covers Everly's shortage as teller of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., which he says is $5100.

Everly awoke Saturday morning in the holdover at the Four Courts, where he was brought by Detective Schenck Friday. Four days ago Schenck saw Everly, who disappeared from St. Louis July 19, on a straw stack near Morrison, Colo., where he was working with a threshing machine.

As the detective and Deputy Sheriff Shipman of Morrison walked toward the straw stack where Everly was at work, Schenck recognized the stalwart man in farmhand's clothes as Everly.

Schenck stood for a moment at the base of the stack, gazing intently at Everly, to make sure of his identity. As he looked, the man on the stack paled. Then the detective called to Everly to come down.

Everly slid down the side of the stack. He seemed dumfounded and could not speak for several minutes. The detective told him he had come to take him back to St. Louis. A look of relief came into Everly's face, and he said he would go. He asked that he be taken back immediately.

Went Straight to Denver.

While in Denver Everly gave an account of his life since leaving St. Louis. The day after the shortage was discovered he went to Denver, he says. The second day in Denver he met a Mr. Baumeister, who had worked in the trust company with him, and after talking with him a few minutes hurried to his hotel and left for Golden, arriving later at Morrison.

At Morrison he found work with the threshing machine crew. He became friends with Marshal Asa Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Shipman of that place and it was through this friendship that his identification was discovered.

Lewis received recently a circular description of Everly sent out by the St. Louis police and he and Shipman readily recognized the picture of the well-groomed and smooth-shaven bank teller as the threshing machine hand who dressed in workingman's clothes and wore a mustache.

They were made more certain by a kodak picture of Everly which Shipman had taken at a country picnic some time before. Lewis and Shipman notified the St. Louis police, and Detective Schenck departed at once for Morrison.

Miss Renick, upon whom Everly frequently called until a few months before his disappearance, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that she had known him four years.

"He was never a reckless spender," she said. "He never seemed to gamble, except on tenpins. He frequently told me that he had lost heavily on bets he had made while playing tenpins. He never drank to excess. I did not know he was married for a long time, until one day I saw him coming from his house."

PEARY WILL HAVE A BIGGER SHIP

Arctic Club Proposes to Build One on Same Lines As Roosevelt.

SYDNEY, C. B., Nov. 24.—What the policy of Commander Peary is with regard to future excursions in the direction of the North Pole is a matter of conjecture.

"You see," replied Peary, "it is impossible for me to express myself definitely on the point until I consult with the members of the Arctic Club and other friends interested."

"But after an experience of 20 years," observed the Post-Dispatch correspondent, "you would naturally prefer to continue the work, especially after the rather encouraging results of this last experiment."

"In the majority of cases," said Mr. Peary, "that is probably correct; but it is impossible for me to be definite until I see my people."

In connection with this it is learned from one of the officers of the ship that the club is now considering the construction of another and larger ship on the same lines as the Roosevelt. Commander Peary is very enthusiastic regarding the virtues of the steamer, which enabled him to reach a point 203 miles distant from the pole and brought him safely back to civilization.

When asked if the comparative success of his present expedition was not due to his knowledge of the conditions existing at the pole, he agreed that it was in some measure, but gave a large share of the credit to the Roosevelt, which had reached winter quarters farther north under her own steam than any other in the history of exploration work.

"Of course, the Fram wintered farther north than we did," exclaimed the commander, "but she drifted there, while we drove the Roosevelt through obstacles of ice that seemed irresistible. No other ship ever built could have stood the punishment as sturdily as the Roosevelt."

Speaking of the boilers, two of which were put out of commission on the way north, Commander Peary stated that the occurrence had demonstrated that strength had been sacrificed to economy. Water tube boilers require less coal, but they are too delicate to stand the stress of the arctic campaign. If any future expeditions were conducted by him he considered this point gained.

Commander Peary was entertained last night by the members of Royal Cape Breton Yacht Club. He is awaiting an important telegram before proceeding to New York.

TRUST COMPANY TELLER, SKETCHED ON RETURN FROM EXILE IN W

CHARLES H. EVERLY.

BIG ORE DEPOSIT FOR INDEPENDENTS

Canadian Tract Said to Rival Steel Corporation Holdings.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 24.—The new deposit of ore recently discovered in Canada, upon examination is shown to contain almost as much ore as all the holdings of the Steel Corporation with the exception of the Hill properties recently purchased. This information has caused much comment among iron ore men and it is stated that independent interests in Buffalo and Pittsburg are negotiating for the property. This new ore-bearing property is about 20 miles east of Port Arthur and is about three miles in width and six miles long. According to recent tests the body will contain slightly upward of 20,000,000 tons of ore.

Statements of the grade of this ore vary considerably. One is that it will run about 70 per cent in metallic iron and within the limit of Bessemer quality on phosphorus and having a low percentage of sulphur. It is also declared that the moisture amounts to only about 1 per cent more, whereas that of the Mesaba range averages about 8 to 10 per cent. It is declared that this new ore adheres more closely to the analysis of the old range Bessemer and will be available immediately for open hearth and Bessemer processes of making steel.

It is declared that the 20,000,000 tons indicated is the minimum that is likely to be developed. For some time the body of the ore lands in this section were owned by individual interests, although the statement is made now that the interests have consolidated and practically the whole deposit is owned by one concern.

The statement from the Northwest is that negotiations are under way for the independent steel interests, principally the Lackawanna Steel Co. of Buffalo the Lackawanna Steel Co. of Pittsburg. The deposit has its southern limits within about 1000 feet of the shore of Lake Superior, while the northern boundary reaches to the tracks of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, something over three miles inland. It is declared that the ore reaches practically to the surface of the ground and consequently it will be an open pit process almost exclusively.

Provided this ore is sold to American steel companies some difficulty will be encountered in importing iron, due to the customary duty, but this will be offset by the fact that the Canadian Government gives a certain bounty for the production of that ore, especially if it is manufactured into the finished product on Canadian soil. It is already reported that one blast furnace has been started and almost completed near Port Arthur for the use of this ore, while steel mills are in prospect.

BROKE A BLOOD VESSEL.

Woman Dropped Dead While Looking at a Picture.

The funeral of Mrs. Eva Hassendeubel, who died at the home of her son, Gustav Hassendeubel of 2620 Park avenue, will take place Sunday afternoon from the Park avenue address. The cause of her death was a rupture of a blood vessel.

At the time of her death she was looking at a picture of a young girl which hung in a gilt frame above the dining room mantle. A few minutes before she had said to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hassendeubel, "I remember when I was a young girl like this one. It is a beautiful picture." As she spoke she sank to the floor and died almost instantly. She was 82 years old.

Mrs. Hassendeubel was sister-in-law of Col. Francis Hassendeubel, who as military engineer, built the fortifications in St. Louis during the Civil War. She has been a resident of the city since 1852.

In 1844 she married Carl Hassendeubel, brother of the military engineer, who died four years ago. She is survived by the following children: Frank, Philip, Emily, Gustave and Bertha Hassendeubel and Mrs. Annie Burmeister.

FREIGHT EARNINGS NOT IN STATEMENT

Government Seeks to Disprove Wabash's Complaint of Losing Money.

Richard E. Berger, freight auditor of the Wabash Railroad, was recalled to the witness stand Saturday for cross-examination by S. B. Ladd, special counsel for the State, in the maximum freight rate hearing before Special Master in Chancery Schoneld in the Federal building.

On direct examination Berger told why thousands of dollars were omitted from the statements of freight earnings in Missouri prepared by the auditing department of the Wabash for use in the hearing. On the stand Friday he promised to prepare a statement showing the total freight earnings for the year ending June 30, 1906.

The examination revealed the fact that switching charges amounting to $111,611.64 and bridge tolls of $31,198.43 were omitted by the Wabash from its statement of freight earnings during 1904. Berger said that his attention was called to the discrepancy by the State's experts. It was found also that the statement of the Wabash for 1905 contained no mention of $79,557.74 of switching freight earnings in St. Louis and $40,481.27 collected in bridge tolls. Berger also admitted that he had added to the total shown in the statement the discovered by the State experts in the application of percentages.

Berger's testimony developed the fact that the percentages used by the Wabash sum of $14,179.14, the amount of errors in the apportionment of freight earnings tend to lessen the revenue of the Missouri division. It was shown that no part of the bridge tolls on goods routed from Kansas City to Cincinnati and points east, or from points east of the Mississippi to Kansas City is allotted to Missouri. These and other facts are expected by the State to disprove the claim of the railroad that it is losing money on freight in Missouri.

THRE WOMEN IN FIGHT.

Wife Says She Found Husband Calling on Rival.

Mrs. Mary Armstrong, 43 years old, of 421 South Second street, is in the City Hospital as the result of a fight with Mrs. Julia Reedy, to whom she says her husband, Frank Armstrong, a baseball player, has been paying attention.

Mrs. Armstrong says that she and her husband separated last June, after they had been married three years. They were then living at 710 Market street. Third street, Mrs. Reedy came out and we got into a fight. I was getting the better of her, when her daughter, Betsie, came out and hit me over the eye with a poker."

The police arrested both the women on cross charges of disturbing the peace. Mrs. Reedy was taken to the Central District Police Station. Mrs. Armstrong was sent to the City Dispensary and thence to the hospital. She is suffering from a lacerated right eyelid, internal injuries and a cut finger.

Chicago Capitalist Arrested.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Chauncey L. Graham, vice-president of the Steel Ball Co., was arrested last night at his residence in Evanston by detectives from State's Attorney Healy on a bench warrant issued by Judge Kersten, the charge being uttering fictitious paper. The accusation grows out of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank failure. The Steel Ball concern owes the bank approximately $270,000 and most of the notes it gave as security are considered worthless.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, the best remedy for their children.

FINAL AFFIDAVIT IN ICE TRUST CASE

President Whitelaw of the Polar Wave Denies Price Agreement.

TRIAL SET FOR MONDAY

State Will Attempt to Prove Existence of Combination in St. Louis.

With the deposition of C. W. Whitelaw, president of the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co., Circuit Attorney Sager Saturday completed the taking of testimony in the proceedings against the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. and the Merchants' Ice and Coal Co. for alleged violations of the anti-trust law.

The trial of the two companies will be begun Monday in Judge McDonald's division of the Circuit Court and will be conducted in person by Circuit Attorney Sager. It will be his first appearance in the civil courts as a public prosecutor since he assumed the office.

The suits, which are in the nature of quo warranto proceedings, were brought last June and Clifford B. Allen was appointed commissioner to take testimony.

As the Circuit Attorney could not compel certain witnesses to appear and testify, the grand jury, which was then in session, was invoked to aid him. Some forty or more witnesses were subpenaed and they gave evidence which enabled him to call in others by civil processes until over sixty persons were examined to prove, if possible, that an agreement existed between the defendants to fix and maintain the prices of ice in St. Louis.

Part of the depositions were taken by Assistant Circuit Attorney George Fickeissen, who questioned President Whitelaw Saturday.

Denies Making Agreement.

Mr. Whitelaw denied that he had been present at meetings or had received reports from meetings at which the prices of ice in St. Louis were fixed.

He admitted that a meeting was held in his office last March at which representatives of the Merchants' Ice and Coal Co. and Hannibal Bros. were present and during which he discussed with them the raise in cost of coal due to a threatened strike and incidentally the possible effect on the price of ice was mentioned. He denied, however, that a price was fixed at that meeting or even suggested.

At the conclusion of Mr. Whitelaw's testimony, Commissioner Allen notified counsel for the State and the defendants that the transcripts would be completed and in readiness for the trial beginning Monday.

In the declaration of the suits, the State recites that it expects to prove that a combination did exist and that will ask for a penalty in the form of a fine and forfeiture of the charters under which the companies do business.

DENIED WATCHMAN'S STAR.

Board Refuses Dismissed Policeman's Application.

Patrick J. Butler of 2923 Easton avenue, for nine years a member of the police and detective force of St. Louis, who was dismissed April 6, 1906, for lifting the Sunday lid on his day off, has been denied a license as a private watchman. The Police Board, at the same time, adopted an ironclad resolution not to grant a private watchman's license to any man who had been dismissed from the police force.

Butler protests against what he declares to be the injustice and hardship inflicted on him by the board's action.

"I had a place as watchman for the West End Club at 2615 Washington avenue," he said Saturday to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "The refusal of the board to grant me a license, while Charles Haughton, president of the club, promises it will not lose me the place, will make me less useful.

"I was nine years on the force without being summoned before the board once until the time I was dismissed. I walked a beat from August, 1897, until May, 1904, when I was made a detective. The offense I committed was to drink three bottles of beer in a rooming house at 2015 Franklin avenue. President Stewart found out about it and I was dismissed.

"The board's resolution shuts out all men who have had experience in police work because of the single misstep that has caused their dismissal from the force. The resolution works a hardship on me and on any number of deserving men who know the police business and want to work at it. Many of the men cannot get work in other lines, and are put completely to the bad by such a ruling."

SAYS HE WAS SHOT.

Man Found at Station Tells of Boarding House Fight.

Found wandering in the Union Station, almost exhausted from loss of blood, Michael Dwyer of Rosamund, Ind., is in a critical condition at the City Hospital. He has a wound in the back of his head which, the hospital physicians say, may have been inflicted by a fall against a sharp projection or by a pistol shot. Dwyer says he was shot in a quarrel in an East St. Louis boarding house.

Dwyer was found Friday evening at the Union Station by two policemen. He told them he had been paroled Thursday from the Penitentiary at Chester, Ill., on a sentence of 21 years for murder and had gone directly to East St. Louis.

Arriving in East St. Louis Thursday evening, Dwyer said, he began a search for a boarding house and finally made arrangements to stop at one. He was unable to tell the police exactly where it was located. During the evening he became involved in a quarrel with two men stopping at the house, he said, and one of them shot him in the back of the head.

Dwyer's condition from exhaustion and loss of blood was such that he was unable to give a coherent account of the quarrel.

BILL IS AMENDED.

Change in Membership of Proposed Bridge Commission.

The O'Brien bill for the appointment of a commission to select a site for the Free Bridge and to supervise its erection was sent to enrollment by the House of Delegates Friday with an amendment completely changing the personnel of the commission.

Instead of the President of the Board of Public Improvements, the Comptroller and the Harbor and Wharf Commissioner, the commission is to be made up of three members of the House, appointed by the Speaker of the House, and three members of the Council, appointed by the President of the Council, together with the Speaker and the President of the Council.

The amendment was decided on by the Committee on Legislation and the father of the bill. The committee desired the changes made.

PERJURY CHARGE DENIED BY PIERCE

Oil Magnate Says Indictment, if One Is Found, Is Political Effort.

PRIEST EXPLAINS CASE

Attorney Declares That Affidavit Pierce Signed Was Absolutely True.

H. Clay Pierce of St. Louis, president of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co., who is said to be under indictment for perjury in Austin, Tex., gave out a signed statement in New York Friday evening in which he characterized the charge, if it had been brought, as an "outrageous political effort." Press dispatches quote the statement as follows:

> The report that an indictment has been returned against me at Austin, Tex., if true, signifies merely a political move and is without moral or legal justification. I did not make an affidavit, as stated in newspapers. The affidavit I did make was absolute true, and duplicates of it were made each year afterwards by other officers of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. until the law requiring it was repealed.
>
> Judge Henry S. Priest is authorized to furnish a detailed statement of the facts concerning this latest outrageous political effort. It is absolutely untrue that I left St. Louis because of this indictment.
>
> H. CLAY PIERCE.

Judge Priest is in Austin. He went there when the report of the indictment first became public. So far no true bill has been made public, and it is said that possibly none has been found. Two grand juries are in session, and press dispatches say the State may intend to delay proceedings looking to an indictment until after the trial of the ouster suit next week against the company.

Priest Explains Affidavit.

In an interview given out in Austin, Judge Priest said, according to press dispatches, that the State could not by any possibility prosecute Pierce for the affidavit he made May 31, 1900. This was the affidavit for which Pierce was rumored to have been indicted.

"The Waters-Pierce company had been in existence two days when the affidavit was made," Priest said. "He made it on the advice of counsel who were perfectly familiar with the facts. It did not contain a statement, as has been reported, that the Standard Oil Co. held no interest in the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. It did not contain a statement as to who were the shareholders in the company. These things were not required under the anti-trust law providing for the affidavit.

"The affidavit merely said that the company had not entered into any pool, trust or agreement with any other corporation or copartnership doing business in Texas for the purpose of fixing prices or limiting output, and that it was not a monopoly.

"The words used required legal definition, and Mr. Pierce had the right to rely upon the opinion of his counsel for that meaning, and they held, and they still contend they held rightly, that the affidavit stated the truth.

Merely a Partnership.

"The State cannot possibly contend, if the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, at the time the affidavit was made, owned a majority of the stock of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co.; that that assumed fact would make the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. a trust or monopoly to fix the price or limit the output of the products of petroleum in Texas. If the State of Texas could denounce as a trust, the corporation legally and inquire as to the membership of its share holders, the fact would then be apparent (considering that the Standard Oil Co. was one of the incorporators and Mr. Pierce the other) that neither the Standard Oil Co. nor Mr. Pierce were then doing any business in Texas, nor have either of them ever done any business there, and the articles of association, the only medium through and by which they united their capital, could not be in restraint of or a conspiracy against any trade which either was then conducting in Texas.

"To illustrate: If Tom Brown and George Jones were each engaged independently in coal merchandising in Missouri and should resolve to form a partnership to do the same business in Texas, where they had never before done any business, their mere agreement of copartnership could not, by any possibility, be tortured into an agreement to form a pool or establish a monopoly in trade in Texas.

"It is impossible to conceive how any prosecution could be instituted under such circumstnaces."

PRIEST DIES IN HOSPITAL.

Father Delaney Was Graduate of Kenrick Seminary.

The body of Rev. Father Martin Delaney, pastor of a Catholic Church at Reedsburg, Wis., who died in St. Francis Hospital, La Crosse, Wis., Friday, from heart disease, has been sent to St. Louis for burial. The body will be buried in the priests' lot at Calvary Cemetery at 10 a. m., Monday. The funeral service there will be conducted by Father O'Reilly of the La Crosse diocese.

Father Delaney, who had long been afflicted with heart disease, went to the hospital five weeks ago. On account of his health he was not able to give close attention to his parish, and was compelled to spend the greater part of his time in St. Louis and Texas.

He was born in St. Louis Feb. 9, 1869. He graduated from Kenrick Seminary, and afterwards took a course at Cape Girardeau Seminary. He was ordained at La Crosse Dec. 25, 1899. His first charge was as assistant pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, Superior, Wis. Father Delaney's health soon failed, making it necessary to give up his assignment at Superior. The church has since become the Cathedral of the new Diocese of Superior.

Since leaving Superior he had charges at Minocqua, Avoca and Reedsburg, all in the La Crosse diocese. He was one of the most brilliant young priests in Wisconsin. Father Delaney had two sisters living in St. Louis, one, a Mrs. Middleton, at 2926 Franklin avenue. The other lives on Taylor avenue.

She Wants $25,000 Damages For Man's Failure to Wed

MRS. SOFIAH ELIZABETH FLOYD.

THIS is Mrs. Sofia Elizabeth Floyd, 28 years old, of 4639 Vernon avenue, who has filed suit for $25,000 in the East St. Louis City Court against William H. Plass, because, she alleges, he failed to keep his promise to marry her. A son of Plass is married to Mrs. Floyd's sister.

Plass is 59 years old. He denies that he ever promised to marry Mrs. Floyd, and says that she courted him. He is said to be worth $150,000. He came here from Silica, Mo., and traded for a saloon at 6122 Wellston avenue. Later he traded the saloon for a hotel in East St. Louis. He says Mrs. Floyd followed him and continually pressed the matrimonial subject.

PAYS CHILDREN TO KEEP THEM IN SCHOOL

N. O. Nelson Gives Pupils Whose Aid Is Needed to Support Families Amounts They Would Earn at Work—Has Made Offer to Women's Clubs to Pay Half Such Wages in All Needy Cases in City.

A proposition to take all children under 14 years of age out of factories and other places of employment and send them back to school has been made by N. O. Nelson, the millionaire manufacturer, to the women's clubs of St. Louis, Mr. Nelson to pay the children one-half of the amount they would have received for their work and the women's clubs the other half.

The clubs now have the matter under consideration, and have promised to give Mr. Nelson a positive answer after their December meetings.

Pending the decision of the women's clubs Mr. Nelson has undertaken to do this work himself. During the past two months he has investigated every application made to the truant officer for permits for children under age to work in factories. He has found seven worthy cases, and each week these children call at Mr. Nelson's office, Tenth and Pine streets, and receive the amount of money they would have been paid if they had remained at their work. The average is about $3 a week.

Mr. Nelson has caused them to be sent back to school. Since he undertook the work 24 applications for permits have been made to the truant officer. Mr. Nelson referred these cases to the Provident Association for investigation, and upon the report made to him determined whether they were really in need. In only seven cases he found that the families were in such circumstances that they were compelled to depend upon the earnings of the children for sustenance.

Mr. Nelson is now in Bessemer, Ala., and will not return to St. Louis for another week.

UNCLE SAM AFTER COLORADO FUEL

Its "Yellow Dog" and the Land Office Under Hitchcock's Eye.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Colorado Fuel and Iron Co., in which Ex-Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton was formerly interested, is alleged to have liberally used its "yellow dog" fund in providing favors for such officials of the General Land Office as were in a position to render the company assistance in obtaining possession of valuable mineral lands belonging to the public domain. This is one of the features that will be investigated in the round-up being made of charges affecting the General Land Office.

The "yellow dog" fund of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. has furnished a topic for gossip about the Interior Department for more than a year, but officials will not indicate a specific instance of its being used. A prominent official smiled broadly and suggestively today when asked for what purpose this fund was employed, and said: "Oh, it's something that everybody here knows about, but nobody knows very specifically about it. There is a general understanding that people who are in a position to be a friend to the Colorado Fuel Co. in connection with its relations with the Government—and these are mighty extensive—are able to take trips and enjoy themselves through the courtesties of the company and the 'yellow dog.' There may be no fire, there certainly has been a good deal of smoke."

The "yellow dog" fund is said to be under the control of a former official of the Interior Department who is alleged to be extremely useful because of his familiarity wit hpeople and affairs that are concerned with the management of the public domain.

EDWARD E. SOUTHER DEAD.

Eustace Everett Souther of the E. E. Souther Iron Co., died Friday night at his residence, 5118 Westminster place. Death was due to old age. He became ill after returning with is family in September from a six-months' tour abroad.

He was a senior elder of the Second Presbyterian Church, and was a member of the Latin-American and Mercantile clubs. He was born in Ipswich, Mass., in 1834. His family moved to Alton, Ill., when he was 10 years old. He was married in 1858 to Miss Cornelia W. Casterline. Coming to St. Louis in 1860, he accepted a position with the firm of Gaylord, Son & Co. In 1894 he incorporated, with is brother, the E. E. Souther Iron Co. He is survived by his widow, a son and four daughters.

WOMEN SOUGHT IN DOUBLE TRAGEDY

De Laney Said to Have Objected to Wife's Fondness for Stage Career.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Two women are sought by the police in connection with the killing yesterday of James H. De Laney, president of the American Shipping Co., by his wife, who took her own life. De Laney and his wife were found dead in a fashionable rooming house at 490 La Salle avenue, where they had been staying several weeks since their arrival from New York, their home.

From marks on the woman the police believe that she had been struck in the face by her husband and that being unable longer to submit to upbraidings for her real or fancied shortcomings as a wife, she murdered her husband.

Every afternoon it has been the custom of Mrs. De Laney to leave the La Salle avenue house with two women, and they were, the police assert, nearly always joined by three men.

De Laney objected to his wife's fondness for a stage career and for the associations of the theater. She was opposed recently by her husband in her ambition to enter a new dramatic organization after having appeared on the stage at intervals following her graduation several years ago from the Chicago Musical College. It is believed by the police that his constant upbraidings, his jealousy and finally this personal violence caused the double tragedy.

Mrs. De Laney was formerly Miss Elizabeth Brown of Wills Point, Tex. Her father, Charles E. Brown, a wealthy cattleman and land owner, who lives in Fort Worth, and her mother is living in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were divorced and Brown has since married.

THIS JOKE IS ON KENTUCKY MAYOR

Louisville Men Came Here to Inspect Garbage Reduction Plant.

HEAR OF CHESLEY ISLAND

They Decide to Abandon for the Present Inspection of the Swine.

Mayor Paul C. Barth and party of city officials of Louisville, who arrived in St. Louis Saturday morning to inspect the garbage system and public service utilities of St. Louis, will return to the Kentucky metropolis much disappointed, for they had expected to see the best garbage reduction plant in the United States.

Instead of seeing this, they found that the garbage reduction system of St. Louis was only a hog farm and they did not even take the time to visit the now famous Chesley Island and see the service.

Louisville's Mayor and other city officials have been making visits to many of the large cities inspecting garbage plants and sewerage systems and other utilities.

When the party reached Cincinnati a few days ago, they came in contact with a practical joker, who told them of the wonderful garbage system maintained in St. Louis. They were told that it was the best system in the United States.

Mayor Barth was exceedingly anxious to get to St. Louis and finish the trip of inspection, for it was here that he thought that he could see just such a system that he wanted to adopt in Louisville. When the Louisville delegation arrived in St. Louis Saturday they were told that the St. Louis garbage system was at Chesley Island, where garbage was dumped and fed to the hogs, maintained by a private corporation and that the reduction was done solely by the hogs.

Joke on Investigators.

They declared to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the joke was on them and that they were ready to serve the drinks. Through curiosity the party wished to see the pet hobby of Mayor Wells, but for lack of time deferred the visit to a future date, when they would make a special trip to St. Louis for that purpose.

The Louisville party is composed of Mayor Barth, President Charles B. Norton of the Board of Public Works, John M. Settle, chairman of the Board of Public Safety, and R. F. Vogt, member of the Board of Public Works.

Mayor Barth and Chairman Settle visited the plants of the different sand companies to inspect the hoisting machinery Saturday morning. President Norton and Mr. Vogt inspected the conduit system and the sewerage system during the forenoon. Saturday afternoon Street Commissioner Valliant escorted the party in an automobile over the city, showing the party the streets and sewer system.

Louisville recently voted a bond issue of $4,000,000 for a new sewer system and passed an ordinace compelling all telegraph and telephone companies to place their wires underground.

Mayor Barth and party will be entertained at the Missouri Athletic Club Saturday night. Some of the party will witness the pugilistic exhibitions which are on the program. Mayor Barth has not yet accepted the invitation to witness the bouts.

POLICY GAME IS RAIDED.

Tally Sheets of the "Henry" Confiscated.

A back room on the second floor of 113 North Sixth street was raided Saturday by Detectives McMullen and Wells, who arrested Archie Schroeder, a policy writer, and seized a quantity of policy tickets, rate cards and tally sheets, some of them bearing the name, "The Henry Co."

Schroeder, who is about 50 years old, was taken to police headquarters, where he was sweated by Assistant Chief of Detectives Keely. He refused to give any information as to the proprietors of the policy games, and declared he did not know for whom he was working.

Schroeder has been convicted in the City Hall Police Court a number of times of selling policy tickets.

His claim is that the rubber he has produced from wheat is no imitation or substitute, but the real thing, and has the samples to prove it.

MARKED STAMPS DEACON'S SNARE FOR HIS FIANCEE

Says He Sent Them to Widow and Got Them Back on Objectionable Letters.

SENT THEM TO OTHERS

Another Witness Swears He Has His Pocket Full of Them Now.

SHOCK FOR MRS. QUICK

Until Trial Began She Was Sure He Would Come to Her Aid.

Mrs. Ruth Quick, a widow, and her daughter, Myrtle, of Charleston, Ill., were placed on trial in the United States District Court at East St. Louis Saturday on a charge of sending obscene letters to John Weaver, a Baptist Deacon, to whom Mrs. Quick was engaged.

Deacon Weaver was the principal witness against his fiancee, whom he caused to be indicted less than a week ago. Mrs. Quick, who professed to believe that Weaver would come to her assistance, sat unmoved in court while the man she was to have married told how he had been annoyed by receiving unprintable letters, and how he had marked stamps and sent them to her in an effort to catch the writer.

Weaver is 62 years old and Mrs. Quick is but 10 years his junior. He admitted that he was engaged to her, and that he had been "courting" her for more than a year.

He said that he had marked stamps and given them to several different persons, among others to Mrs. Quick, his daughter, Mrs. Mollie Bradley, and John Wall, a hired man. He said that he had sent stamps marked on two corners to Mrs. Quick and received letters bearing stamps similarly marked a few days later. The letters contained the objectionable matter, he said.

Supposes He Courted.

"You and Mrs. Quick were sweethearts—engaged in courtship were you not," suggested an attorney for the defense.

"Yes, I presume that's what you call it," answered the deacon, casting a cutting glance toward the widow he is prosecuting.

"And your folks were 'raising Ned' about it, were they not?" said the lawyer.

"Not that I know of. I have been calling on her for more than a year and never heard of any objection being made by any of my folks.

"I began receiving the objectionable letters some time ago, and laid plans to catch the sender. I marked stamps and postal cards and sent some of them to Mrs. Quick. I gave stamps bearing a different mark to my daughter, Mrs. Bradley, and some others to John Wall. I left some of the marked stamps around the house.

"A few days after sending the marked stamps to Mrs. Quick I got them back on letters."

Pockets Full of Stamps.

Wall testified that he saw Weaver marking the stamps, but added somewhat emphatically and humorously that he "didn't know the old man was working the marked stamp racket on him." The witness did not strengthen the Government's case any when he looked over toward the prosecuting witness and said:

"The Deacon's got his pockets full of them stamps now."

Mrs. Bradley also testified, but there was nothing of a direct nature in her evidence. The letters were then put in evidence, and court took the usual noon recess.

Mrs. Quick and her daughter will present their defense during the afternoon.

Mrs. Quick had insisted all along that Weaver was true to her, but that he was under the influence of relatives.

In addition to Weaver and his daughter, several other witnesses arrived Saturday morning from Charleston to testify against Mrs. Quick and her daughter, for the trial of whom an extra session of the Federal Court is being held Saturday. They were to have been tried at the December term of the court at Danville, but because of their inability to procure bond and the distress which would be caused them by incarceration in jail, a special setting was given by Judge Wright.

Since their arrest Thursday they have been locked up only four hours. The rest of the time they have been under guard at the Royal Hotel or at the Federal courtroom.

Mrs. Quick and her daughter were seated in the Federal courtroom Saturday shortly before the trial began, when Weaver and his daughter entered. Mrs Quick looked up expectantly, but Weaver walked past her without appearing to be aware of her presence.

The letters which form the basis of the prosecution are said to have been received by Weaver during the time that he was paying attentions to Mrs. Quick. Miss Quick admits writing one of them, but says words have been written in since. The authorship of the other letter has not been admitted.

Mrs. Quick is 52 years old, and Weaver is 62. Miss Quick is 24.

ST. PIUS' DEDICATION.

Archbishop to Officiate in New Parish Ceremony.

Archbishop Glennon will preach at the dedication Sunday morning of the new St. Pius' Church, Grand avenue and Utah street. Solemn high mass will be celebrated at 10 a. m. The officers of the mass will be: Celebrant, Rev. J. J. McCabe; deacon, Rev. F. J. O'Connor; subdeacon, Rev. Joseph A. Collins; master of ceremonies, Rev. M. S. Brennan; deacons of honor to the Archbishop, Very Rev. J. A. Connolly, Rev. J. J. Head.

Solemn vespers will be held at 7.30 p. m., at which Rev. Father D. S. Phelan will preach. Rev. Thomas Walsh will be celebrant, Rev. Father Leo, O. S. F., and T. Bolger, deacon and subdeacon, and Rev. John Nugent, master of ceremonies. Rev. John Lyons is pastor of the church, which is a newly organized parish.

IN AID OF THE CLERKS.

Consumers' League Will Hold Annual Meeting.

The Consumers' League of St. Louis will hold its annual meeting Monday, Nov. 26, at 4 o'clock, St. Peter's Parish House, 124 North Spring avenue. All interested are cordially requested to attend.

This league opposes child labor and its general object is to alleviate the working conditions of women and children. The organization has a large following in the principal cities. Its particular object at this season of the year is to work up a sentiment in favor of early shopping, to lighten the burden of employes during the few days before Christmas.

Children's Home in Need.

An appeal is made to the general public for donations of food, clothing or money for the little ones in the Salvation Army Children's Home, 1243 North Garrison avenue. There are about 25 children, all less than 13 years old. Those in charge particularly urge a response for Thanksgiving week, in order that there will be provision for the dinner. The home has recently been put in repair and there is a need of money for this work. All donations should be sent directly to the Garrison avenue home, where they will be thankfully received.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes.

COLLEGE GIRL ADMITS FORGERY

Hyrmal Erminie Jacobs of Galesburg Given Time by Court to Tell Story.

SAID HARRY CONTROLLED

Is Expected to Reveal Man's Identity Before She Is Sentenced.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GALESBURG, Ill., Nov. 24.—Hyrmal Erminie Jacobs, a college girl, who drew $1000 on forged checks from the First National Bank here, pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery today. Judge Grier announced that he would withhold sentence to give the girl an opportunity to tell the story of the motives which prompted her to the crime.

If she avails herself of the opportunity given to her by the Judge she will, it is thought, divulge the name of the mysterious "Harry," whose influence over her, she has said, forced her to pass the checks.

In previous statements she has said that she has known Harry for three years and that he controlled her actions to such an extent that she could not resist doing anything he told her to do. She says that he gave her the bogus checks and told her how to cash them.

It was at first thought that "Harry" was a myth; but this belief was shattered when the young man's name was found on hotel registers and on letters written to Miss Jacobs before her crimes were discovered.

When she was arrested the girl gave her name as Florence Scott, but the authorities had little difficulty in identifying her as the daughter of a farmer near Mount Pleasant, Io.

Miss Jacobs is 21 years old. She attended the Iowa Wesleyan University before coming here.

All of the checks which she is alleged to have passed were made payable to "Florence Scott." She denies that she signed the bogus signatures and says that all of the checks were handed to her by the mysterious "Harry."

BURIED BY SOCIETY.

Man Who Ended Life When Unjustly Accused Was Scotchman.

The body of W. H. Henderson, the 81-year-old was veteran who ended his life in a Four Courts Cell when arrested on a charge of which he was innocent, was saved from burial in potter's field when it became known he was a Scotchman.

Orders to bury the body at the city's expense were issued and were to go into effect Friday. Then a message was sent to the Morgue by P. Walker, marshal of the Caledonian Society, saying that the society would assume charge of the burial.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from Alexander's undertaking establishment on Olive street. A service according to the ritual of the Caledonian Society was presided over by Alexander Murdoch, chaplain of the order, and the interment was in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

BRIDE WAITS BY INJURED HUSBAND

Ambulance Driver Unconscious After Car Hurled Him to Curb.

CAR WRECKED VEHICLE

Witnesses Say Driver Was Picking His Way Carefully Across Track.

Charles Schiffner, 25 years old, driver of a City Dispensary ambulance, who was injured in a collision with a Market division street car in front of the City Dispensary, lies unconscious at the City Hospital with a fractured skull and physicians fear that he will not recover.

Schiffner, who lives at 7423 Virginia avenue, had been married little more than a year. His wife, with their 2-months-olds babe, went to the hospital immediately after the accident and during the long hours Friday night the girl-wife watched anxiously for any sign of recognition from her husband.

Twice was her patience rewarded when Schiffner opened his eyes, barely nedded his head and then lapsed into delirium.

The collision occurred at 8 p. m. Friday. Schiffner was on his way to work for the night. After procuring his team at the stables at Eleventh street and Clark avenue, he drove north on Eleventh street to the dispensary.

Using Caution When Hurt.

As he was crossing the Market street tracks he was struck by an eastbound car and thrown from the vehicle against a curbstone.

John and Gus Maxey, barbers at 1119 Market street, were eyewitnesses of the collision.

"I was looking out of mywindow and saw the accident," said John Maxey to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Schiffner was driving north on Eleventh street to enter the alley leading to the rear of the Dispensary. He was driving slowly. His ambulance lights were lit and he kept his gong clanging.

"He pulled up his team to allow one street car to pass on east and then started across. Another car was following less than thirty feet behind the first.

"The second car, which was going over ten miles an hour, struck the rear of the ambulance with such force that it hoisted it in the air several feet and Schiffner wa sthrown clear across the north track to the curb, where he fell on his head.

"Joseph Gallagher, a fellow driver, and three other men picked up Schiffner, who was unconscious, and carried him into the Dispensary."

SPENT HIS MONEY THEN ENDED LIFE

Suicide of Young German Prevented Family Reunion Christmas.

TOOK DOSE OF MORPHINE

He Had Squandered the Cash Sent Him to Pay His Expenses Back Home.

Three months after his older brother had made an unsuccessful attempt to kill himself with morphine in a university in Germany, John Strobl ended his life with the same poison in a private residence at 2534 University street, St. Louis.

The young German's act will prevent a long-looked-for Christmas gathering of his family at their old home in Germany. It was the money which his mother had sent him to pay his traveling expenses to the other side that led Strobl to foolish acts that brought out the spell of melancholia during which he ended his life.

This money—about $100—came to Strobl a month ago. At that time he had just been discharged from a position under his roommate, George Kriegbaum, who is manager of a stable. Kriegbaum says that Strobl would not work and he could not keep him any longer.

Strobl took the $100 and instead of buying his ticket with it, spent it on clothes, which he did not need, and amusements which were harmful. He spent the entire amount in four weeks and also squandered the wages which he received when he was discharged.

Talking in His Sleep.

Thursday evening Kriegbaum went to his room shortly before 11 o'clock. At that time the bed of his roommate, Strobl, was still unoccupied. When Kriegbaum awoke early the next morning he heard his roommate in bed muttering to himself.

Thinking his companion was dreaming, Kriegbaum dressed and left for his work. He returned to the house about 5:30 p. m. and as he entered Mrs. Mary Christ, in whose residence the two young men roomed, came running to him, very much frightened.

"Oh, go upstairs, Mr. Kriegbaum," she said. "I don't know what the matter is. John is not yet up. I opened the door a little while ago and his face above the covers is white."

Kriegbaum rushed up to his room. There he found the young man on his back in the bed with the covers pulled up to his chin, and quite dead. He called in the police and a little box and a letter were found.

"The box had once contained morphine," said Kriegbaum to a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday, "and so we concluded that that was the way he had come to his death. I was quite sure of it because he had told me about his brother trying to kill himself with morphine three months ago at a German university, but that his life had been saved. He said that his brother's name was Max and that he had failed in an examination. He also told me then that perhaps he would do the same thing some day if things didn't turn out better."

Farewell Letter to Mother.

The letter was addressed to Strobl's mother. It was opened at the police station. Translated it reads: "Dear mother, this is the last line I will write you. I have just taken a big dose of morphine. The only wish I have is that I shall never wake again. I am grateful for the money you sent me and am sorry that it came too late to do me any good. Your thankful son, John."

Misfortune seems to have followed the Strobl family. Kriegbaum says that Strobl's brother kilide his best friend by accident several years ago. The two were hunting together and Strobl's friend tired of the sport and wished to go home. Strobl tried to dissuade him and when his friend mounted a bicycle said playfully that he was going to shoot him. He shot at the tire of the wheel and struck his friend, who died 12 hours later.

The body was sent to the Morgue. Kriegbaum has cabled the mother of the young man asking for instructions.

VOLUNTEERS SAVE MARISSA.

Burning Block Threatens Town With Destruction.

For the third time in five years Marissa, Ill., about thirty miles from St. Louis, on the Illinois Central, was threatened with destruction by fire Friday night, when the general merchandise store of J. C. Hamilton, in the center of the business district, was burned to the ground. The flames were prevented from spreading by the efforts of the Marissa volunteer firemen, assisted by the Lenzburg volunteers, who brought their apparatus five miles over frozen country roads in response to a call for help.

The Hamilton Building was completely destroyed, however. The loss on the building was $6000. The stock had been replenished with Christmas goods and the loss on that was over $10,000. The destruction of the contents of the Red Men's Hall, the office of Justice J. M. Wiley and of the furniture and library of the law office of Senator R. S. Hamilton brought the loss up to about $20,000 partially covered by insurance.

A year ago the bank of Marissa was destroyed and five years ago almost the entire business section was wiped out. The origin of the fire Friday night, as in the case of the previous ones, is unknown.

WROTE FAREWELL NOTE, TOOK POISON.

JOHN STROBL.

B. P. I. CAN'T GRANT PERMIT FOR TRACK

Question of Connection of Suburban and United Still Undecided.

The Board of Public Improvements has no right to grant a permit to the United Railways to connect the Suburban Railroad system with the United Railways system. This is the effect of a legal opinion just rendered to the board by City Counselor Bates.

The long series of legal questions which have arisen from the effort of the two system to follow their reported fiscal consolidation with a physical consolidation are still unsolved. The City Counselor makes no effort to solve them, inasmuch as they were not submitted to him. The opinion leaves unanswered the questions whether any ordinance authority exists for the construction of the connecting track, whether the two roads have really consolidated, and whether, if ordinance authority exists, the Street Commissioner has authority to grant the desired permit.

The request for an opinion on the matter as it reached the City Counselor asked merely: "Has the Board of Public Improvements the power to grant the permit requested by the United Railways?" The City Counselor, a man of exact speech and few words, answered: "It has not."

Street Commissioner Valliant will now ask the City Counselor for another opinion on the specific point, "Does ordinance authority exist for the construction of a track by the United Railways on Manchester avenue to connect the St. Louis & Suburban tracks with the United Railways tracks, and if so has the Street Commissioner the right to grant the permit for the track?"

This question has not been passed on in any way by the City Counselor. It is also possible that Manager McCulloch of the United Railways will be called on to give proof that his road is the possessor of all the street railway franchises in the city and that, if authority exists for any road to construct the track, his road now has that authority.

GIFTS IN 46 BUILDINGS.

Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association Finishes List.

The Executive Board of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association has completed the list of buildings and the names of the men who are to have charge of them. Forty-six buildings are on the list this year.

The large placards were distributed by High School boys Saturday in downtown offices and placed in store windows. The placards are as follows:

GIVE TO THE SICK POOR
NEXT
SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
HOSPITAL SATURDAY, DEC. 1.
HOSPITAL SUNDAY, DEC. 2.

Returns are coming in rapidly from the Trades Committee's letters. The returns show a 20 per cent increase over that of last year.

A meeting of the ladies in charge of the buildings and their assistants has been called for next Wednesday afternoon in the Ladies' Room of the Mercantile Club. The Executive Board will meet the ladies and explain the arrangements for Saturday collection.

The Sunday School and Church Committees have sent out their notices to pastors and Sunday School superintendents, asking them to make preparations for the collection Dec. 2.

The Box Committee has opened headquarters at 712 Security Building, and the boxes and other material have been unpacked. Fifty thousand tags and badges will be delivered Monday. Next week will be occupied in sending out notices to members, in charge of the buildings, and ladies assigned to the buildings. The following members of the board were present at Friday's meeting: A. L. Shapleigh, B. J. Taussig, H. N. Davis, W. J. Kinsella, Edward H. Semple, James A. Waterworth and Mayo Fesler, assistant secretary.

CARUSO CONVICTION STARTS A CRUSADE

New York Police Propose to End Insults to Women by Fashionable Men.

CARUSO TO OPEN SEASON

Box Holders Say Cloud Over Tenor Will Not Keep Them Away.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The fining of Enrico Caruso, the noted tenor, for annoying women in Central Park, has only added to the discussion. His friends say he will find vindication in a higher court, as well as on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, where he sings Wednesday night, at the opening of the grand opera season. His fellow-countrymen, who form an unorganized Caruso claque whenever he sings, will be out in force that night, and if any man seeking excitement cries "Monkey house" there will be many things doing, no doubt—and there is much probability of some one crying that very thing.

Manager Conreid of the Metropolitan, who has stood by Caruso in his trouble, will only say to the public: "I entirely concur in the opinion of Caruso's counsel as to the injustice of the verdict and the assurance that it will be set aside."

Those box holders who would commit themselves when interviewed declared their belief in Caruso's innocence, and said the cloud hanging over him would not in any way influence their attendance.

Unfortunately, the case against Caruso fell to a choice between the story told by Policeman Cain and that of Caruso. All the other material witnesses on both sides were utterly discredited and their testimony became worthless. The woman said to have been insulted was not produced, and thereby the case became one of opinion rather than of proof. The police say the woman fled; Caruso's lawyer asserted that she was either a myth or a conspirator, with the policeman to disgrace Caruso if not to blackmail him.

Other Women Professional.

Assistant Police Commissioner Mathot was prevented by the court from obtaining Caruso's answer to a question about an alleged insult to a lady on Fifth avenue. Referring to this incident, Mr. Mathot said:

"I have no desire to hound this man. I put the question because I was in possession of the facts. I was loath to bring in the name of the woman. Now that Caruso has been convicted, I would not give her name under any circumstances. She is a professional woman and of the highest respectability.

"The conviction of Caruso is what interests the Police Department. The nominal fine is only an incident. I was satisfied from the start that the policeman was right. I have spent much time in Central Park trying to get some of these fellows. We have other complaints against men like Caruso. Some of them are a great deal more important than Caruso. The records will show that from fifteen to twenty arrests of this kind are made every week in Central Park. The department did not care particularly about Caruso, but it is going to try to put an end to the insulting of women by fashionably dressed men in Central Park."

WOMAN KILLED IN WRECK.

Sixteen Hurt in Crash of Cars Near Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 24.—Miss Harriette Harger of Pontiac was killed and 16 other persons were injured early today when an electric freight car crashed into the rear end of a suburban electric car near Birmingham. The passenger car was a theater car, bound out to Pontiac from Detroit, and was well filled.

It had stopped at the foot of a steep grade in front of the powerhouse, when, without warning, the freight car, also outbound, which had been following the theater car from Detroit, appeared over the crest of the grade and dropped down the 300-foot incline at terrific speed. It struck the standing passenger car with such force that it telescoped the car for two-thirds of its length.

Would Pay in 20 Years.

The Committee on Municipal Lighting has made its report to the Affiliated Business Men's Association through J. F. McCullogh, an electrical expert. The report states that a municipal plant can be built for $3,218,000, and that it would pay for itself within 20 years. The expense of lighting the city would be about $463,000, against the present cost of $550,000 a year, and many more miles of street would be supplied.

CHURCH SHOULDN'T HANG, SAYS EXPERT

Dr. Scherck Writes Gov. Folk That Prisoner Is Irresponsible.

NO PLACE TO PUT HIM

State Lacks Institution for Care of the Criminal Insane.

The question "What shall be done in Missouri with the criminal insane?" is broached in a letter just sent to Gov. Folk by Dr. H. J. Scherck, chief dispensary physician. Dr. Scherck, in the letter, pleads for the life of W. E. Church, condemned to death for the murder of his foster parents at Warrenton. Church is confined for safekeeping in the St. Louis Jail, and Dr. Scherck, who is Jail physician, has had occasion daily to see him, has decided that he is insane and irresponsible.

"We have no public institution in Missouri now for the care of the criminal insane, and while I put the case up to Gov. Folk, I cannot see what we could do with Church if his sentence was commuted," said Dr. Scherck Saturday. In his letter he says:

I feel that my conscience would not permit me to let this matter rest without a statement to you concerning the mental status of his prisoner. W. E. Church is a degenerate of the most pronounced type. If he were allowed to be at liberty, the probability is that he would commit a similar crime without the slightest compunction. Yet I am equally certain that he is not aware at present, nor was he at the time of committing the crime, of the enormity of the offense or the penalty attached. I am firmly convinced that this man is not responsible for his act in the sense that his mentality is of such a low an order that he does not appreciate the difference between right and wrong, and, therefore, technically is not, in my opinion, to be held accountable for his acts.

"My opinion in regard to this man is shared by the Commission on Insanity, which was appointed at my suggestion, to assist me in arriving at a just opinion as to the mental status of prisoners at the Jail who plead insanity. This commission is composed of Dr. S. I. Schwab, Dr. W. W. Graves and Dr. Frank R. Fry, who are of the same opinion as expressed in this communication.

Unfortunately there is no institution, so far as I know, within the borders of this State where Church could be kept until the end of his natural life, and, perhaps, as an economic proposition it is just as well that that State be rid of such a type, yet from a purely scientific standpoint he is positively not acountable for his act, nor should he be punished for it, since his conception of the deed is beyond his mentality.

The Monticello Hotel Plan
Is the only satisfactory way.

Would Lessen Smoke.

An application for permission to construct an areaway under a portion of the public alley just south of the Laclede Hotel has been made to the city. It is promised that, if this is granted, the hotel will install larger boilers and thus help to abolish St. Louis' smoke blanket by ceasing to force its boilers beyond their rated capacity. The application was refused by the Board of Public Improvements Friday on the ground that the ordinances prohibited the grant, and because the space asked for was already occupied by wire conduits.

THE POLICY SYSTEM.

The Post-Dispatch's investigation of policy operations in this city has brought out information of the highest importance. It shows that there is an organized policy system controlled and directed by men with political influence and abundant means.

The city is divided into policy districts in which different companies operate. The vendors are assigned to specified sub-districts. Tickets are sold to men, women and children on commission. The companies take care of arrested vendors, supplying them with lawyers and bonds and paying their fines, which are regarded as necessary expenses of the business. Vendors have in the past been arrested and fined just as gambling dens and disreputable places are raided and fined, whenever there is a demand for police action. The fines are "rake off" for the Government. The vendors pay no attention to either arrests or fines, but when released return to their work at once.

The vendor, "Jess" Miller, who attempted suicide because the activity of the police threatened to deprive him of his vicious means of livelihood, said that betrayal of the men "higher up" would mean death, but he disclosed the methods of the system by which men, women and children among the poor and ignorant are swindled out of their nickels and pennies.

The negro Taylor, who is charged with cutting another negro because he informed on him has been arrested a number of times, but lawyers and bondsmen have been supplied for him and his fines have been paid. The fines are reported to have aggregated $500.

All of the vendors say that their settlements are made with other men who supply them with tickets.

With so large a number of vendors known to the police and frequently under arrest the statement that the identity of the men "higher up" cannot be discovered seems absurd. The Post-Dispatch found little difficulty in obtaining the names of alleged backers and of the lawyers who represent the system in police court cases. The names will be given to the grand jury and short work should be made of the system.

But with an extensive system of this kind in operation, with vendors working more or less openly and dealing with middlemen who must in turn deal with principals there is no excuse for a failure of the police to suppress the policy swindle and to keep it suppressed. There is no excuse for a failure to capture and prosecute the principal swindlers.

There are thousands of young men in St. Louis who are spending, for cigars and other luxuries, more than enough to carry them through the course at the University of Missouri. Any young man who does not believe this may be convinced by reading the page article in the coming Sunday Post-Dispatch, showing how university students get along on less than a dollar and a half a week. Of course a young man cannot "hold his job" in St. Louis and attend the university at Columbia at the same time. But there are young men who, if they knew of the opportunity, might soon save enough to take them to Columbia and begin the course. Boston has no monopoly in the art of "plain living and high thinking." Missouri boys know the secret, and the portraits of those who are working it out prove that they are not posing as paupers while getting an education. The article contains a valuable lesson for ambitious young men.

AN EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION.

It ought to become easier and easier to get married, harder and harder to get unmarried, if the human race is ever to be perfected in wisdom. Instead of this, however, we have an increasing number of amateur philanthropists trying to treat marriage as if it were a special privilege to be extended only to those who are already fit for it—that is to say, to the very few who are already well enough educated not to need matrimony to perfect them in all the virtues which as a successful training it is sure to impart.

The St. Louis amateur philanthropist who sprung a scheme of this kind the other day, is only one of an increasing number of the same class. With the difficulties they represent, we have another class of difficulties, represented by tests of matrimonial fitness proposed by lovely woman herself in her new and higher capacities. As these are represented in Miss Dolly Castle, the Lion Tamer, they make marriage an uphill business indeed. When at the last, her betrothed declined to enter the lion's den with her and be married there, her decision was that a man who would not dare once what she could do all the time, ruled him and a yet unenumerated host of others of his class out of the class of matrimonial possibilities.

We need a more strenuous exercise of higher mind in this connection. Increase of population, which is strenuously supposed by White House experts to be the whole object of matrimony, is merely an incident of its usefulness as the greatest educational institution on earth. Everybody who is not in process of getting this education already, needs it and needs to have the difficulties of getting into it removed so that they can be added to the existing difficulties of getting out of it.

The hearing on the elevated road indicates that the people are waking up to the importance of a franchise of this kind. This is as it should be, not from the standpoint of private interest, but of public interest. The granting of a franchise such as that sought in this bill is a matter of the utmost importance to the city. St. Louis has reached a point where the future development of means of transportation for the people must be determined. We must decide what system—elevated or subway—shall be adopted and upon what terms the transportation privileges shall be granted. The subject is so important that it is well worth careful study by a commission of experts. The comfort and welfare of the population of the city depends upon a wise decision on the question.

THE SMOKE NUISANCE.

The report of the committee appointed by the Civic League to study the smoke problem is a valuable public document.

The smoke nuisance is costly, unhealthy and unnecessary. Four per cent of the trees in the city are annually killed by smoke, and it is estimated that in 25 years not one primitive forest tree will be left in Forest Park. Only the hardiest flowers can exist in St. Louis air. Books, papers, stationery, etc., suffer $20,000 a year. No attempt is made to estimate the destruction and deterioration of dress goods, etc. It is incalculable.

It cannot be pleaded that the remedy is not within reach. The committee report that smokeless gas-producer plants are perfectly practicable, being, in fact, in use in some cities. The saving in St. Louis by the general use of these would be $6,250,000 a year. It has been demonstrated at the Government experiment station in Forest Park that these gas producers multiply the steam-making power of coal by 2.6. This fact alone is reason enough for the introduction.

The committee's recommendations are simple: Compel the Terminal Association to use electric engines or smokeless fuel; control heating plants for residence districts; control power plants; an entirely new smoke prevention department of the city government.

This is practical. It looks forward to a long work of improvement which cannot be undertaken too soon. It is an indispensable element in the movement for a new St. Louis which shall exemplify every civic virtue.

A HISTORICAL PARALLEL.

The members of the Mexican "Junta" who are being harried in Missouri with arrest and what they understand to be the threat of delivery to certain death, recall a chapter of Missouri history and American history of much romantic interest.

These enthusiastic young men are not only "Liberals" in opposition to the Diaz Government, but "rebels," and their escape into Missouri was northward over the same routes followed South by the late Gen. Jo Shelby, Maj. John N. Edwards and other Missouri "rebels," who as refugees from a lost cause, swore they would never surrender to fate, and with their unsurrendered swords on their thighs made their wild ride to the City of Mexico.

They thought better of it finally and came back tamely enough to do their part peaceably in the heavy work of making Missouri a great State. And that is what these Mexican "rebels" would do for Mexico if they were treated with common sense and common American justice instead of by Spanish American methods, introduced from the City of Mexico to Washington and introduced from Washington in Missouri as a matter of "diplomacy" and "courtesy" in open violation of American precedents, constitution and laws.

BAD LANGUAGE IN PUBLIC PLACES.

When a trolley car ran down an automobile on Olive street the other night the discomfort of passengers and bystanders was augmented by a stream of foul language from the lips of the chauffeur. A policeman came up to investigate, but his presence made no impression on the man, who continued to pour out filthy words as if they were all he had in his mind.

There is too much of this sort of thing. On the streets, in other public places, and on trolley cars the ears of decency are offended by profane, vulgar and even obscene language, and nobody seems to have spirit enough to resent it. The police, whose duty it is to check such offenses which tend to, and are, in fact, themselves a disturbance of the peace, appear to be insensible to the outrage. In the instance described the policeman went on taking notes oblivious of the fact that a violation of decency and the ordinances was diligently perpetrated at his very ear.

If men and boys are not restrained by their own good sense in this matter the police should take them in hand. Protection from such offenses is the right of every man, woman and child, and the police ought to enforce the right. Possibly some officers do not know what their duty requires them to do.

Vulgar-minded men will mend their manners when they are taught. Let the police instruct them.

INTERROGATION.

I wonder if the boys go out
  As we were wont to do
And hunt for rabbits Saturdays
  The hills and hollows through
With baying dogs and baited breath
  And one gun for the gang,
And every now and then a shout
  And right away Bang-bang!

I wonder if the same old dogs
  Run on the same old trails,
And if the same old coverts yield
  The same old cottontails
We tried to kill so long ago,
  With dogs and boys a-bell,
But never did—and if the said
  Old cottontails are well?

I wonder if the rabbits hide
  Behind the same old logs,
And if the pack is still the same
  Old mongrel lot of dogs
That went with us when we went out
  On Saturdays of old
And clamored same as thoroughbreds
  But couldn't catch a cold?

I wonder if the mist of fall
  Is veiling all the wood,
And if the cool, autumnal air
  Is just as sweet and good
As when it was, and if the chase
  Makes hill and hollow ring,
And in the end the hunters find
  They haven't killed a thing?

Ah me, but that was lots of fun
  We used to have of yore
On Saturdays, when all the gang
  Went out to run some more
The cottontails we never caught,
  With one gun for the gang,
And every now and then a shout
  And right away Bang-bang!

Did Caruso's press agent make a terrible mistake?

BEFORE THE POLICE BOARD.

"Bring in Detective O'Brien," thundered President Stewart.

The great iron bolt shot in the lock, the ponderous door creaked upon its hinges, and Detective O'Brien stood before his superiors.

"Detective O'Brien," said the President, "you are charged with having permitted a prisoner to escape while trying to recover your hat."

The officer nodded, that also being his understanding of what he was there for.

"You do not deny the charge."

"No, sir."

"What have you to say?"

"Only this," the detective answered. "Once upon a time there was a man named Adam. He was mentally sound, but not perfect. He was subject to subconscious cerebrations, and that affliction, strangely enough, became the heritage of his sons. They all had it, and always shall.

"Mr. President, I am one of the sons of Adam. I have subconscious cerebrations. I arrested this man down on Washington avenue, and rang for the wagon. While we were waiting a gust of wind came along and lifted my hat. I was immediately seized by one of my subconscious cerebrations, and grabbed for my hat. I missed it. It started across the street, and I started after it, overtook it, pinned it down and recovered it. My prisoner took advantage of my brief absence, and escaped."

"You seem to have been thinking more of your hat than your prisoner," said the President.

"Not at all, sir. I was conscious of the prisoner, and unconscious of the hat. I did what every son of Adam would have done—left my thoughts with the prisoner and projected my body after the hat."

The President smiled at the expense of his dignity. He was also a son of Adam.

ST. LOUIS THROUGH FUNNY GLASSES

WRITTEN FOR THE POST-DISPATCH
By Irvin S. Cobb.

Woman in Her Hours of Ease—Only She Never Has Any.

'TIS a town of disappointments. To strangers from a distance the Missouri Trust Building never looks as tall as it did on the souvenir post-card. And many visitors experience a pain that is poignant in the extreme on finding that Broadway, after dark, doesn't live up to the pictures that were enjoyed in the Police Gazoote while having the neck shaved, back home in Mink Creek of a Saturday night at the barber shop.

But woman, lovely woman, ever runs true to form, whether in a palace in Washington that cost a million dollars and is nearly 16 feet wide, or in a Delmar terrace flat affording an intimate view of the neighbor's wash out of the back window.

Wearing in her hat a stuffed parrot with sawdust vitals, she presides as chairman at a meeting of the Audubon Society, held to protest against the untimely slaughter of the great auk, deceased. She goes to a session of the Amalgamated Association of Crowing Hens, and when a lady delegate calls the President-General an old thing and the latter retaliates by making a face and bursting into tears, miladi comes away and says it is a great mistake to assume that the sex cannot master the subtle shadings of the parliamentary code. She is glad that she can join the Mothers' Congress, because she has no children to be keeping her at home. Finding that she has an oppressed feeling when laced into a gown two sizes too small, she pays an expensive and highly perfumed specialist a gratifying sum of money to prescribe for her. She begins the treatment by eating a raw egg and a pinch of canary birdseed for breakfast, compromises on a great-gross of marshmallows for luncheon, makes her dinner off a peck of lobster mayonnaise and a custom-made mince pie, and announces before retiring that the doctors don't do you one speck of good, anyhow.

It occurs to her that she is strongly in need of a slight relaxation. If she lived in the country she would go to a funeral. Living in the city, she has to fall back on the drama. Straightway she buys a matinee ticket for a problem play written by an embittered gentleman who was poorly at the time. We know of nothing quite so good for cheering the somber soul and chasing dark thoughts from the alcoves of the mind as an afternoon spent in witnessing the unfolding of a plot that was thought up by a Norwegian gentleman just after eating a hearty meal consisting of raw fish, crude oil and a blue mass pill.

Often the first act is rather disappointing, because you can't tell for quite a spell whether it's going to be a guessing contest, a conversazione or a symposium of symptoms. But occasionally the actors stop talking long enough to shove the action of the piece along and at the end the audience finds everything turning out just grand. The pale heroine has used up several thousand of our most emotional words in doping it out one only enjoys life when one is dead. She takes three large, audible gulps of boisterous poison out of an empty bottle, while the orchestra kindly obliges with a few bars of music such as would be suitable to accompany an autopsy. The poisoned lady then falls down among the footlights, records her farewell impressions in a voice full of gurgles, like the suds running out of a sink, and dies in an attractive and highly successful manner with her feet in the lap of the leader.

Whereupon the subject of this brief sketch returns to her family limp as a rag, with her nose red and her makeup all wept away, and states that she has a raging headache and never enjoyed anything as much in her life.

THE FUNNY PART:

A woman doesn't begin to feel really cheered up until she's perfectly miserable.

HUMOR FROM AUSTRIA

Guest (to waiter): What sort of a menu have you got here, waiter? First you brought me the fish and now you bring me some soup?

Waiter (confidentially): Well, you see, sir, the fish couldn't wait any longer.—Flon.

"Herr Huber, come home immediately. Your wife has suffocated herself with gas."

Huber: Heavens! There'll be a nice gas bill to pay.—Wiener Salonwitzblatt.

Father (sighing): These 10 years have I been waiting in the hope that my wife would give up playing the piano.

Friend: Well, and now——?

Father: Now my three daughters play.—Figaro.

"And shall you carry out your plan of visiting the blue grotto at Capri this year, Frau Lammer?"

"Alas! no, Frau Spits; we are in mourning this summer, so we are going to the Black forest.—Figaro.

Well, I must be off, Kathi, the beer is so warm today it is impossible to drink it. How much have I to pay?

Waitress: Twelve tankards, Herr Councilor.—Kleiner Witzblatt.

A.: You can do me a great favor; lend me a thousand gulden.

B.: Quite impossible."

A.: Why impossible? You are a rich man.

B.: To be sure, but I cannot part from my money; it is a cherished souvenir of my father.—Bombe.

Barber's apprentice (to customer after cutting one side of his face in four places): Will you have the other cheek shaved, too, sir?—Weiner Salonwitzblatt

Elderly Singer (to conductor after the concert): Look here, Herr Conductor, your orchestra played so loud tonight that the audience could scarcely hear my aria.

Conductor: You should be glad.—Wiener Caricaturen.

"What are you crying for, youngster?"

"O, I must show my papa my school behavior certificate, and that pains me so.—Khikerki.

Friend: Who was that funny old party you were speaking to just now?

"That was my wife" (sighing deeply), "but she isn't at all funny, I can tell you."—Bombe.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Psychology and the Income Tax.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What relation do psychological conditions bear to judicial decisions? If certain decisions have appeared queer to some of us at times, and you care to refer to the conditions that existed at the time, you will find that a very close relation existed between them and farther that decisions have been rendered for as well as against the same facts and legal status as conditions arose. To be equal to conditions as they arise, we will yet have a court to declare an income tax constitutional, to say nothing about a revision of the tariff. LAYMAN.

Gentlemen Who Are Men.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I would like to ask of some of the readers of your valuable paper how a young lady can in a proper way meet some gentlemen who are men. I don't mean these boys who wear balloon trousers, rolled half way up to their knees, and their hats pinned up in front and smoke cigarettes. I know quite a number of this kind and I think they would be quite surprised if they knew just what I think of them, but as I am the only child at home, my brothers are married, and if I want to go out at all I must go with these infants, and I never meet any real men who have good sense and can talk about anything sensible.

Will some one offer a suggestion?
LONELY.

Elevator Shafts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A carwheel spring at each corner of the bottom of an elevator shaft, with a bedspring across the rest of the space, would save life, not only when the elevator fell, but when careless persons fell into the shaft. I have urged this sort of safety appliance before, but without avail. When the Legislature meets, a bill compelling the use of better safety appliances, including something of the sort suggested above, should be introduced and passed.
ELEVATOR USER.

The Label and the Overcoats.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am proud and happy to find that our city administration is so much in sympathy with the splendid movement inaugurated this fall for the exploitation of the St. Louis label. It must be very encouraging, indeed, to the manufacturing interests of St. Louis to feel that the Police Department, for instance, is aiding and co-operating in every way possible for the advancement of St. Louis interests. It must reconcile them to the payment of manufacturers' and merchants' licenses and to the payment of personal taxes amounting to $2.25 on the hundred to see the way in which the Police Department encourages the aggrandizement of the St. Louis Idea. This complimentary allusion is brought out by the newspaper item which I saw this morning, the purport of which was to indicate that our Broadway Squad was shivering with the cold because its overcoats had not arrived from Philadelphia. Long live Philadelphia! Her business men may be slow, but here is an instance that either they are more rapid than our own business men or that they know more about making overcoats than we do, or that the man who placed the police overcoat order on behalf of the St. Louis Police Board has never heard of the St. Louis label idea, which is being enthusiastically pushed by the Million Club and all of the loyal people of our city. ST. LOUIS LABEL.

Fair Play.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial in Tuesday evening's issue is timely and to the point. The entire affair concerning the withholding of the Weekly Message from circulation and the repeated assaults upon its editor, Mr. W. E. Rutledge, is a reproach to the people of East St. Louis, in that such a thing is possible in their midst, and that it should be dismissed from all courts of justice without anyone being held to answer for such high-handed proceedings.

Fortunately there is a higher tribunal, and Mr. Rutledge certainly should appeal to the Washington authorities, and since no light can be thrown upon the proceedings, measures should be taken as far as possible to prevent a repetition of the offense. FAIR PLAY.

Yes, We Will.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The best suggestion I can make to check the "Servant Famine" is for the wealthy woman to advertise for male help instead of female help. So many girls in the last few years are holding men's positions, why can't a man hold a woman's position. I think it would be so becoming to a man to cook, wash and iron, clean house and mend clothes. This proposition you ought to publish in your paper, but I know you won't do it. LIZZIE STOERMER.

A.—Open-air exercise with fattening foods that agree with you may cure flabbiness and induce plumpness. Pure milk, cream, butter, oatmeal, peas, beans, potatoes and olive oil are flesh producers. Get plenty of sleep and never worry.

X. Y. Z.—Hair parasites: Saturate head and hair with coal oil for three or four hours; wash thoroughly in warm water with good soap. When dry wash again in good, strong vinegar, drying without using towel. Next, wash again with soap and water.

INQUIRER.—No American was knighted by George III. Benjamin West, a famous American painter, was greatly admired by the King, who was his fast friend and patron for 40 years. He declined the honor of knighthood which King George tendered him.

CURIOUS.—An eminent Catholic divine writes this answer to your question: "Was the first marriage a valid one? To be valid both must have been baptized or both unbaptized. If the marriage is invalid in the eyes of the Catholic Church the man can get a dispensation to marry his Catholic sweetheart."

A. B. W.—Jefferson said: "Say nothing of my religion; it is known to my God and myself alone." By authority of Congress 9000 copies of the Jefferson Bible were printed, 3000 for the use of the Senate and the remainder for the House. In it Mr. Jefferson has eliminated whatever he considered supernatural.

C. A. C.—Crepe de Chine: Shave half cake best white laundry soap in quart hot water; add this to six gallons lukewarm water. If crepe is colored add handful salt. Begin by dipping up and down in suds, wetting all parts equally. Don't rub; squeeze. Don't rub soap directly upon it. Rinse in plenty of lukewarm water in which salt has been dissolved. Don't wring; press with palms of hands. When nearly dry place it between sheets of thin white paper to iron, using only medium warm flats.

J. F.—One who has ferns says: "I watch the leaves closely for the 'scales.' I take a toothpick or anything with a sharp point, puncture the scale and scrape it off the leaf with the pick. Hold leaf firmly but gently in left hand, so that you can see the under side and then attack them. After they are once gone over and scaled off, it is nothing to destroy [illegible] occasional one. I always use weak lime water [illegible] I kept my ferns in winter in a south bay window with curtains tied back and shades up."

THE BOOK CLUB

Wherein Are Discussed the Latest New Books and Their Makers.

IT WAS with countenances indicative of a more than common interest in the discussion about to begin that the members of the Once-a-Week Book Club assembled for a consideration of "Chippinge Borough," Stanley J. Weyman's latest novel.

"It seems to me," said the former Congressman, "that, as a political and social picture of a notable era in English history, this book comes very near attaining the importance of Bulwer-Lytton's 'My Novel.' It's a big achievement—so much bigger than the average run of fiction nowadays that it comes in the nature of a surprise."

"Especially from Stanley Weyman, who has given us mainly romances of picturesque adventure with historical trimmings," joined in the High School Teacher. "I confess that, when I opened 'Chippinge Borough,' I prepared my soul for the flash of rapiers, the whisking of long cloaks and the rustle of brocaded petticoats in royal ante-chambers. That wouldn't have been regrettable, either, but I've enjoyed the new departure very much more.

"There's one trick of his 'costume romance' days which Weyman hasn't forgotten," remarked the Artist, "and that's the knack of vitally projecting his readers, apparently, into the very life of which his stories tell. From the moment we encounter Arthur Vaughan on the book's first page, walking down Whitehall in the direction of Parliament street in his shepherd's plaid trousers and swallow-tail coat, just as the cannon boomed that announced the dissolution of Parliament by William III for shelving the Reform Bill, we're right in the middle of things then under way.

"And there's another feature of romance-writing to which he holds fast with a sound instinct," observed the Literary Grain Broker. "I bid you notice how quickly, in despite of its political atmosphere, this new Weyman novel brings in its heart interest in the person of the heroine, with whom Arthur Vaughan falls in love at sight. Hardly have we got into touch with Brougham and Lord Grey and Lord John Russell and Sir Charles Wetherell and the other giants of the Reform Bill fight, with the grim old Duke of Wellington picturesquely outlined in the background, than—hooray!—we meet the lovely Mary Smith, afterward proving to be the lost daughter of Sir Robert Vermuyden, Vaughan's fine old Tory kinsman, and the romance between the two young persons begins right there atop of the White Lion coach. That's what I like—the call of youth sounded early in the story, no matter how big it may be with political or other problems."

"And I, too, chimed in The Girl. "I don't know when I've enjoyed anything as much as this love story of Arthur Vaughan and Mary Vermuyden, as rich in comedy as in pathos and sacrifice, and ending—well, just splendidly.

"It's a well constructed story," suggested the Old Playgoer. "And I must say that I got more satisfaction from this book than anything I've read for many years."

"What I found most satisfactory in it," ventured the Kindergarten Director, "is that it gives one such a close and intimate view of the English political situation back in the 1830's. I'm ashamed to say it, but really I'd no idea how perilously near a revolution and a civil war was the England of those days—and how directly the inspiration came from France of the 'Hundred Days' and the Restoration. It's almost like opening a new page of history."

"The finest thing in the book, from the dramatic point of view," asserted the Literary Grain Broker, "was that thrilling moment when Arthur Vaughan took the command of the Third Dragoons away from Col. Brereton and gave the order to 'charge!' that saved Bristol from utter destruction by the mob."

"No, sir," objected the Old Playgoer. "The strongest dramatic moment was when Arthur Vaughan, blindly turning the leaves of the document that told the secret of Mary Smith's identity as Mary Vermuyden, seeing no word of all that stood out before his eyes, laid the foundation for Sir Robert Vermuyden's apparently irrefutable charge that he went straightway from that reading to woo the girl and thus gain the fortune taken away from himself."

"Well," said The Girl, "here's the best dramatic hit in the story, to my thinking—the book's closing paragraph: 'And again, as Mary called to them, the sound of the gun rolled up the valley—the knell of the system, good or bad, under which England had been ruled so long. The battle of which Brougham had fired the first shot in the Castle Yard at York was past and won.'"

"Of course," chuckled the former Congressman. "That's because Mary and Arthur were there together, happy as clams, with old Sir Robert standing near, all smiles, and the curtain about to go down on a happy ending. Girl, Girl, you're incorrigible!" (McClure, Phillips & Co.)

SWEET OLD SONGS.

COL. CHARLES E. WARE, who has a remarkable memory for songs and ballads, enabling him to provide musical entertainment for his friends, has collected 56 old-time favorites, which are published under the title of "Ye Olden Time Songs of a Simple Life," complete with music. This makes a handsome volume, which will be sold at $1 per copy. It includes the best gems of Stephen C. Foster, John Howard Payne, Samuel Lover, and many others whose songs were formerly heard at every fireside, but have now been temporarily displaced by ragtime fancies. Not one of these sweet old songs is marred by a suggestion of mammon or opportunism, as is too often the case with modern compositions. "It has seemed apparent to me," says Col. Ware in his preface, "that the people were tiring of the songs and music of the present day, and would gladly welcome a return to the old-time songs of happier and simpler days, if given an opportunity to do so."

This is undoubtedly true. A few of the modern songs may survive, but if they do so, it will be because they voice the genuine, unspoiled sentiments of the human heart as do the songs and ballads represented in this collection. There is no danger that such songs will be forgotten, but their preservation in book form is very welcome. (Buxton & Skinner.)

MOORE'S AUTOBIOGRAPHIA.

GEORGE MOORE wants you to sit up and take notice. Therefore, he shocks you with appalling frankness and indecent confidence. His "Memoirs of My Dead Life" is a too candid book of self-revelation. The American publishers say they have pruned two of the chapters, knowing that Americans will not submit to details in which the English are learning to delight. It may be that our point of view is as absurd as that of the Frenchman, who considers the application of the word female to woman indecent; but so long as we have agreed that certain matters are not to be discussed we are justified in at least charging the man who discusses them with boorishness.

Mr. Moore went to Paris when a plastic youth. He painted in those days—when he was not engaged in seductions and association with men and women of loose morals. Later he abandoned painting for literature, becoming as he claims for himself "the first of the symbolists and the last of the naturalists."

Having arrived at the autumn of his life he follows the London journalist's custom of printing a book of reminiscences, but unlike the London journalist he pillories no one save himself. He is forever thinking about the women to whom he was at some period attracted, and confesses that for him woman is the only subject worth a man's thought. He seems rather proud of having behaved badly toward several women who were over kind to him in spite of his great unworthiness. His point of view is distinctly Parisian and his handling of many episodes shows the French influence on the brilliant Irishman who, like Shaw and Wilde and others from the green isle, delights in assailing our conventions.

Charles C. D. G. Roberts, Author of "The Heart That Knows"

The best part of the book is a prefatory letter from Moore, which the publishers bound themselves to print as the price of his consent to the pruning referred to. It is an ingenuous defense of his shocking creed, delightful to read and not at all convincing. He plainly intended it as an excoriation of mealy-mouthed persons, particularly publishers, but the latter laugh gayly with him and at him as well they may. (D. Appleton & Co.)

BERNARD SHAW.

G. BERNARD SHAW, in his new book, "Dramatic Opinions and Essays," strips plays and players of the English stage of much of their glory. Holding no traditions too sacred to be blue penciled by his sharp weapon, he discourses of the Elizabethan dramatists with a frankness that will make the devotees of this dramatic epoch awaken with a start.

He ostentatiously restrains his pen at the name of Shakspeare, saying in effect: "Poor Shakspeare, more sinned against than sinning."

That he is a stanch partisan of Ibsen is a delightful reflection to those who believe in the Norwegian dramatist, and they may lay to their souls the comforting unction that they possess, in common with Bernard, a "Shavian" theory. (Published in two volumes by Brentano's.)

NEW JUVENILES.

MANY young people are familiar with the Helen Grant Series, the fourth volume of which has just appeared from the pen of Amanda M. Douglas, with illustrations by Amy Brooks. Miss Douglas pictures very cleverly and accurately the life at a school for girls, and the young people will find much to delight and improve them in this story. (Lothrop, Lee & Shepard.)

"Randy's Loyalty" is the seventh volume of the Randy Books, by Amy Brooks, illustrated by the author. Loyalty to others is the keynote of the book, and the ultimate reward of this sterling quality is impressed upon young people in the way that best youthful impressions are made—in pretty fiction. (Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.)

"Dorothy Dainty in the City" is the fifth volume of the Dorothy Dainty Series, by Amy Brooks, illustrated by the author. Dorothy goes to spend the winter in the city, and her experiences constitute a pretty story for young girls. (The Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.)

"The Court Jester," by Cornelia Baker, author of "The Queen's Page," etc., and illustrated by Margaret Ely Webb and Margaret H. Deveneau, is an inviting book for young people, both in text and illustration. It has the fascinating aspect of being full of good stories, and so it is. (The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"The Four Corners" is another book in the Four Corner Series by Amy E. Blanchard. It is a capital holiday gift for a young person of sufficient years to do one's own reading and be interested in the invention of games. (George W. Jacobs & Co.)

"That Little Lamb," by May Baldwin, author of "That Awful Little Brother," is a pretty book for young people who like a good and sweetly-told story. It carries four illustrations by Miss Atwell. (George W. Jacobs & Co.)

"Shaggycoat, the Biography of a Beaver," ought to be a great hit with the boys, for it has a beaver pictured upon the cover and is all about beaver inside, altogether such a book as a nature-loving youth would climb a thorn tree to possess. It is by Clarence Hawkes, author of "Three Little Folks," etc. (George W. Jacobs & Co.)

Fairies, giants, gnomes and other ideals of childhood are not supposed to revel midst the noise and clamor of steamships and railroads, but Charles J. Bellamy has adapted a number of the favorite tales of this kind to twentieth century conditions and they seem just as happy as in the old German forests. He has combined all the charm of the older tales with smoke and steam and does not mar the scenes. The volume, "The Wonder Children," is made seasonable by placing The Enchanted Christmas Tree, one of a dozen tales printed therein, for the leader. It is a book for children who can read readily to spend happy hours with, or for mothers to read to the smaller children, and it does not expose any of the secrets of childhood. (The Macmillan Co.)

BOOKS OF TRAVEL.

TWO excellent new books of travel have been published within the last week. One of them is "Highways and Byways of the Mississippi Valley," by Clifton Johnson, illustrated with the author's photographs along the river from its mouth to St. Paul. This is the book from which last Sunday's Post-Dispatch reproduced the amusing chapter in which Mr. Johnson told what he heard of Mark Twain in the humorist's old home town of Hannibal, Mo. This has been adjudged the most interesting chapter in the book, but it is doubtful if it is more interesting than the chapter on Nauvoo; the old Mississippi River home of the Mormons. The impressions of Mr. Johnson are delightful, and what he hears and sees is recorded in a most readable way. He is not always complimentary, and incidentally tells of his clash with the press at Cairo, Ill., for that reason—which is one of the whys his book is worth reading. It is a big and beautiful book, written with a nice appreciation of historical things, without prejudice and in the best of humor. We have all interestedly read what Father Marquette and the Sieur de La Salle found while descending the Father of Waters almost two and a half centuries ago, and what struck the fancy of Mr. Johnson ascending the river last summer cannot fail to appeal to us directly and comparatively. (The MacMillan Co.)

The other book of travel of the week is "Through the Gates of the Netherlands," by Mary E. Waller, author of "The Wood Carver of 'Lympus," "A Daughter of the Rich," etc. It is a pretentious volume admirably adapted to holiday gift-giving, and carries 24 photogravures after Lalanne and others by A. Montferrand. This entertaining writer has for some time been living in Holland, accumulating the material for this graphic and fascinating account of the country. The charm of their quaint land and the daily life and habit of the Dutch people are fully felt and entered into, and seeing and hearing Holland through the eyes of Miss Waller is worth while. (Little, Brown & Co.)

THE CHLORIDE COLLEGE.

GEORGE ADE has written about the College Widow, and graduates of Harvard and Yale have written their recollections of college life, but up to the present time we have lacked full and interesting accounts of the chloride college. At last they have appeared in Recollections of a Gold Cure Graduate, by Newton Newkirk, editor of the humorist's column in the Boston Post. The publishers, H. M. Coldwell Co. of Boston are to be congratulated on the volume, nothing funnier than which has greeted the book-tired public in many a day. It is bright, clever and witty from dedication to appendix, and the quality of humor in it is subtle and keen. "Tracks in the Snow," a two-page map of a misguided home-hunter, is only one of the book's masterpieces of fun, and in itself is a story not to be missed. The "Tracks" tell the story, and there are many other illustrations by Wallace Goldsmith.

DUNBAR'S POEMS.

POEMS of the late Paul Laurence Dunbar, the negro poet who crossed the color line into the favor of poetry lovers everywhere, have been published in a little volume by Dodd, Mead & Co. with photos by Leigh Miner Richmond and decorations by John Rae. The selections include some of the poems with which Dunbar won recognition and others with which he strengthened his standing with the critics afterward. The volume is entitled "Joggin' Erlong."

A WISE PRINCE.

IN ELIZABETH DUER'S "The Prince Goes Fishing," Maximilian of Palatina develops a delightful surprise. He is commanded by his father, the King, to marry Helene of Grippenburg on two weeks' notice and his friend Von Stenberg is told off to command the guard of honor, which is to escort Helene from the border of her father's principality. You are ready to forecast another Francesca and Paolo conclusion to the Princess' journey, but Maximilian is modern if he is a spoke in a very old fashioned wheel, and he dictates a pleasing ending to the delightful romance. (Appletons.)

Don't Bolt Your FOOD

A large number exhibit haste in eating—a disposition to bolt their food. It is of utmost importance that one should eat sparingly, leisurely, and take time for digestion. The poor stomach must not be abused but given time to convert the food, so that every meal will yield a store of building elements to the blood.

MRS. DROGMUND GETS YEAR FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Kansas City Woman, Who Slew Husband, Is Satisfied at Verdict.

SHE MAY BE PAROLED

Judge Allows Her to Spend Night With Baby After Conviction.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 24.—Convicted of manslaughter in the fourth degree for the killing of her husband, Ed Drogmund, an orchestra leader, Mrs. Dora Drogmund, musical prodigy and a member of a well-known family, today began a sentence of year in Jail.

The verdict was returned by the jury in the Criminal Court yesterday afternoon, where Mrs. Drogmund has been on trial this week. Mrs. Drogmund sat in the courtroom yesterday afternoon without any manifestation of emotion and heard the verdict of the jury. The jurors had been out two hours. They announced their verdict at 5:10. Mrs. Drogmund did not look at them. Her head was bowed and her eyes were downcast. Then the jurors and the crowd went away. Judge Wofford spoke to the woman:

"You may go to your baby at the Ashland Hotel and stay there tonight. No bond will be required. Come back here tomorrow morning."

"Mrs. Drogmund will not appeal the case," said L. C. Boyle, her attorney. "She will begin to serve her sentence tonight. I so informed Judge Wofford."

"I am satisfied with the verdict," said Mrs. Drogmund last night.

"I don't want to appeal the case. I had hoped for an acquittal, but I'm glad it is not any worse than it is. I begin to serve my sentence tonight. I have been under a great nervous strain and I'm very tired. Now that it's all over I think my baby will get well."

In the trial Judge Wofford was careful not to keep Mrs. Drogmund away from her baby too long. The child, 2 months old, was sick at the Ashland Hotel.

Judge Considerate of Baby.

Yesterday morning Judge Wofford adjourned court at 11:15 in order that Mrs. Drogmund might go to the baby. It is in his power to parole any prisoner in the County Jail who is not under Penitentiary sentence. Had Mrs. Drogmund been given a Penitentiary sentence she would have been removed from Judge Wofford's jurisdiction.

It was possible for the jury to have sentenced her to two years in the Penitentiary after finding her guilty of manslaughter in the fourth degree. That would have been the maximum penalty. The minimum is a fine of $500.

The first vote of the jurors when they retired to their room to prepare a verdict was on this question:

"Is Mrs. Drogmund guilty of any crime ranging from manslaughter in the fourth degree, with the minimum penalty to murder in the first degree?"

Eight voted in the affirmative and four voted for acquittal. Two of the eight were for murder in the second degree. None were for murder in the first degree.

Ed Drogmund was the leader of the orchestra in the People's Theater, West Side. After having been separated for two weeks, the couple met on the afternoon of Feb. 20 at the home of a mutual friend at Drogmund's solicitation. They were left alone in the parlor about an hour and there Mrs. Drogmund shot her husband twice in the head.

Testifying in her own behalf at the trial this week, the accused woman said she shot because she thought her husband would harm her and her baby. She wept as she told how Drogmund had ruined her life. She testified that she did not know of his physical condition when she married him.

Mrs. Drogmund was first married a little more than two years ago, when she was barely 17 years old, to Paul Haas, a contracting engineer. She had just completed a five-year course at St. Mary's Academy, Notre Dame, Ind. She left Haas after six weeks, at her mother's request, and soon was divorced through a cross-bill filed by Haas. Haas has been the woman's friend during the present trial.

Parks Recommended by the Commission

Between Eighth and Twelfth, Morgan and O'Fallon streets, one block in size; estimated cost, $240,000.

Between Seventh, Eleventh and Marion streets and Geyer avenue, one block in size; estimated cost, $180,000.

Between Nineteenth and Twenty-third street, Franklin and Cass avenues, one block in size; estimated cost, $40,000.

Between Ninth, Thirteenth and Victor streets and Russell avenue, one block in size; estimated cost, $75,000.

Purchase of half block adjoining Mullanphy playground, not now owned by city, for park purposes; estimated cost, $55,000.

Set aside for construction, $80,000.

Total, $670,000.

Park Commissioner Aull and the Public Baths Commission, consisting of Dwight F. Davis, F. O. Zeibig, Eugene S. Wilson and Ernest J. Russell, chairman, have presented to the Municipal Assembly a report under the recent bond election recommending locations for five additional parks in congested parts of St. Louis at a cost of $670,000.

The report was made in response to an ordinance passed by the Municipal Assembly and the joint commission finds that the proposed parks are an absolute necessity.

The commission refers to the small parks as the "lungs" of a large city, breathing places where tired men, women and children may find a reprieve form poorly ventilated factories and stores and recreation grounds for children who otherwise would be compelled to play in the streets, gutters or alleys.

Small parks, the commission says, decrease the death rate and juvenile crime. The statement of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners before the State Legislature in 1902 is cited in which figures are given to show that 90 per cent of St. Louis criminals are persons who committed their first offense against the laws while under the age of 16.

The recent San Francisco catastrophe proves the further value of parks in thickly settled neighborhoods as a protection against fire and refuge in times of great public danger.

Parks Are Educational.

The commission regards small parks as an educational meeting place for foreign born citizens and a training school for their American development.

The commission in connection with its report prepared a map of the city, dividing it into three districts—Eastern, from the Mississippi River to Jefferson avenue; Central, from Jefferson avenue to Grand avenue; Western, from Grand avenue to the city limits.

This division of territory shows that the eastern division, with 48 per cent of total population, has but 6.9 per cent of the total park area. The central, with 21.4 per cent of population, has 8.3 per cent of the park area, while the western, with but 30 per cent of population, has 84.7 per cent of the park area. In short, the western district has an acre of park area to every 96.5 persons; the central one acre to every 701.2 persons, while in the eastern there is an acre to every 1871 persons.

Because of this disparity, the commission recommends five new parks in the congested downtown sections.

The commission finds that 21,762 persons are crowded between Seventh, Fourteenth and Morgan streets and Cass avenue. Here the congestion is greatest, sanitary conditions are bad and more crimes are committed than elsewhere in St. Louis. Conditions are due more to ignorance than to inherent vice and for this reason a park would be a blessing.

Where Parks Are Needed.

Capt. Johnson, who formerly commanded the Fourth Police District, recommended that the park be placed between Tenth and Twelfth, Wash and O'Fallon streets. He said the playground at Carr Park was a Godsend to the poor children and decreased juvenile crime.

South of Hickory street to Geyer avenue and west from Second to Fourteenth street 25,860 persons live. There are many shacks of one room in which from ten to fourteen persons live, eat and sleep. Disease breeds here and the tuberculosis death rate alone in this district claims 38 from every 1000 of the laboring classes and 17 per 1000 of the mercantile and professional classes. There isn't a single breathing spot or playground in this district.

The commission recommends the abolishment of the tumble-down shacks which represent what was once Kerry Patch. This district is being built up with tenements and in 1900 had 15,276 inhabitants. A park here is a necessity.

The report says that 13,194 persons live between Geyer avenue and Sidney street, Broadway and Eighteenth street, with no recreation place easily accessible. The factory workers have no place for fresh air or rest and children play on the streets, broiling in summer, or covered with slush and mud in the winter. In this locality there is much petty crime.

The purchase of the half block adjoining the Mullanphy playground the commission thinks will do much good as it is the rallying place of the whole neighborhood. Capt. Pickel of the Fifth Police District also says a public bath is urgently needed there.

HE GOT THE FEE.

Attorney Says He Attended to First Duty of a Lawyer.

The first duty of a good lawyer was defined in the City Hall Police Court Saturday by Attorney Brock Storts upon interrogation by Judge Tracy as that of getting the fee in the case. Storts appeared in court as attorney for the defendant in a disturbance of the peace case. His client failed to appear and he told the Court when the case was called that his client had promised to appear for trial. "I am ready for trial your Honor," said Storts. "I have no client, no witnesses, I have nothing but a fee."

"You received the fee?" asked Judge Tracy.

"Yes, sir. That's the first duty of a good lawyer."

The defendant was fined $25 by default.

MAROONS SHOULD BEAT NEBRASKA

Eckersall Plays Final Collegiate Game of Football Saturday at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Chicago winds up its football schedule for this year today with the University of Nebraska eleven as its opponents. The game also marked the close of the football career of Capt. Eckersall of the Maroons, who has brought victory to his team so often in the last four years by his drop kicking, and Coach Stagg and the members of the Maroon eleven have made no secret of their intention to make Eckersall's work a feature in this, his last game in his collegiate life.

Marshall Field has been nursed as tenderly as an infant all week and even up to half an hour of the time, when the game was scheduled to begin the heavy layers of hay and canvas were kept on the gridiron. The two elevens therefore had a fast, springy field to play on, and with but little wind blowing and the air crisp and bracing, conditions were almost perfect for fast football.

Minnesota early in the season defeated Nebraska, 13 to 0. Chicago, with conditions favoring their open-field play, figured on a much higher score than this, and Capt. Eckersall's drop kicks are expected to cross the bar more than once.

Nebraska hardly expects to win, but has been especially coached for Eckersall, and hoped to hold the score to a comparatively low figure, with perhaps a touchdown or a place kick to Nebraska's credit.

IN Socker Society

All the local league clubs will play double-headers Sunday.

Our esteemed friend, Dr. Murray, is not taking an active interest in the game this fall.

The pride of Butchertown, "Butch" Ammons, who is a member of the unbeaten West Ends, will join Cahill's organization Sunday, appearing in the forward line of the St. Roses, with Jimmy Reardon and Johnny Finnigan.

The strong Hyde Park team of Chicago, winners of the city championship this season, are booked to tie up with the pick of Cahill's Association League at Kulage's Park Sunday, Dec. 23, and Christmas Day. Hyde Park played here in 1904, when the Magazines, with King Finnegan at the helm, beat them in a pretty battle by a score of 2 to 1. In the second game the visitors were defeated by the close score of 1 to 0 by a picked team from the Association League.

Little Scotty, who played in St. Louis several years ago with the Cycling Club and Blue Bells, is captain of the Hyde Parks.

TWO SCHOLASTIC GAMES SATURDAY

Western Plays Manual While McKinley Lines Up Against Yeatman High.

SATURDAY'S RUGBY FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

McKinley High vs. Yeatman High, at Kulage Park, 2:30 p. m.
Manual Training School vs. Western M. A., at Stadium, 2:30 p. m.
Chicago vs. Nebraska, Chicago.
Purdue vs. Illinois, Purdue.
Iowa vs. Ames, Iowa City.
Monmouth vs. Beloit, Monmouth.
Harvard vs. Yale, New Haven.
Brown vs. Dartmouth, Springfield.
Pennsylvania vs. Villa Nova, Philadelphia.
Swarthmore vs. Amherst, Swarthmore.
Lehigh vs. Lafayette, Easton.
Georgetown vs. Maryland U., Washington.
Navy vs. Virginia Poly., Annapolis.

But two local football games, neither of which will amount to much, will be played in St. Louis Saturday. Both games will be Interscholastic League contests. At the Stadium at 2:30 p. m. the Manual T. S. and Western M. A. elevens will clash. The McKinley High School and Yeatman High School teams will play at Kulage Park, starting at 2:30 p. m. also.

McKinley High should defeat the Yeatman team easily. The Manual-Western game promises to be a hard fought struggle from start to finish. The Western team defeated Smith Academy this season, while Manual gave to Central High and McKinley hard games and defeated Yeatman High. As the games will have no bearing on the championship of the league they, will not attract much attention.

CLINE WINS AT BILLIARDS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Harry Cline of Philadelphia last night defeated Thomas Gallagher of New York in their game in the class B billiard tournament, the final score being 400 to 378. The game was one of the best played so far in the tourney, first one man being ahead and then the other forging to the front.

Gallagher practically won the game for Cline, for several times Referee William Sutton stopped the veteran New York player and awarded the inning to Cline on a foul. It took the men 26 innings to finish the game, but if Gallagher had not been stopped twice when he was in a fair way for a long run, the result might have been different. The first alleged foul occurred in the fifth inning, when Sutton said that Gallagher had touched one of the balls. Gallagher had just completed his eight point, and the balls were in such easy position that Cline made a high run of 50.

Gallagher lost the stroke again in the twenty-fourth inning on a foul and this time Cline made a run of 33 before he missed.

Gallagher's highest run was 56 and Cline's best was 69. The winner averaged 15 10-26, and Gallagher averaged 14 14-26.

SEVEN BOXING BOUTS AT M. A. C.

Geschke and Gresham Only Members of Sullivan's Squad Who Will Don Gloves.

Seven boxing bouts and one wrestling contest will compose the program at the invitation amateur boxing tournament at the Missouri A. C. Saturday evening. While the bouts lack class, they are expected to produce some hard, even contests.

Frank Geschke and Bob Gresham are the only M. A. C. boys who will box. Geschke is probably the most promising fighter on the M. A. C. squad. He will oppose H. Krause of the C. A. C. in the 158-pound class. Geschke's best weight is 145 pounds, but he will probably be able to drive his right up to Krause's chin, in which case the Crescent A. C. man will hit the canvas.

Gresham will take on W. Appleton, unattached. If Gresham is in no better condition than he was at the last tournament, when he fought and won without training, he is taking all kinds of chances going against unknowns, as last month he was almost defeated.

Monte Dale of the Crescent A. C., the boy who gave Oliver Kirk such a terrific three-round bout at the last tournament that the judges disagreed and it was necessary for the men to go an extra round, Kirk winning out, will oppose Frank Brinkman in the 125-pound division.

There are rumors that the Crescent A. C. boys will insist on the right of naming one of the judges for the bouts and if their demand is not granted that the boys will not box. As three Crescent A. C. men are to go on it would knock the edge off the tournament if their request is refused and they do not box. The program for the evening follows:

105 pounds—R. Gresham, M. A. C., vs. W. Appleton, unattached.
115 pounds—J. Shelton, unattached, vs. E. Inge, C. A. C.
115 pounds—Harry Carter, unattached, vs. J. A. Smith, unattached.
125 pounds—M. Dale, C. A. C., vs. F. Brinkman, unattached.
152 pounds—J. J. Galloway vs. J. W. Rainey, both unattached.
158 pounds—F. Geschke, M. A. C., vs. H. Krause, C. A. C.
115-pound wrestling—N. Spiritus, South Broadway A. C., vs. J. Brant, unattached.

WHERE HAVE ALL OLD CYCLES GONE?

Where do the old wheels go? The question is as pertinent as the immortal query about old pins. The out-of-date bicycles, however, are much more easily traced. Jobbers buy them up in America and Europe and ship them literally to the uttermost corners of the earth. South Africa is enjoying the bicycle these days, just as America did a dozen years ago. And the natives, it is said, take very kindly to the wheel.

Returning travelers tell of the immense pride which ownership of a bike develops in the heart of a Zulu, who, by the way, never needs trouser guards, and is thus spared much annoyance.

THE SPORTSMAN'S NICHE

Unquestionably Mr. Chadwick's assertion concerning the weakness of the defense of Western football teams is founded upon absolute fact. To everyone who has seen first-class Eastern and Western teams play the deficiency of the latter in defense has been apparent.

The chief reason of the excellence of defense the East displays is individual coaching, a most important department of football in which the West is entirely lacking.

At Yale, Harvard, Princeton and other great Eastern colleges guards are coached by guards, tackles by tackles, ends by ends and backs by backs. Not only that, this year's player gets the advantage of the knowledge of the 20 years which went before him. For instance, centers from Corbin to Hookenberger go down to New Haven every year to coach the man who is filling their place. Heffelfinger, McCrea, Chadwick and other famous guards run down for a week or so and coach the guards. So it is with the tackles and ends. Frank Hinkey, one of the greatest ends that ever broke interference, is seldom missing during a football season. The same custom pertains at other great Eastern colleges. Now a back can scarce coach a guard or a guard a back. There are a million and one little niceties of play, feints, ducks, bluffs, counters, turns and twists peculiar to each position with which men who play other positions cannot be familiar.

The Western teams are almost entirely coached by one man. He takes linemen and backs alike and does the best he can with them. But the work of one man familiar with one position cannot equal that of 100, each of whom was a star in his specialty.

And it is in defense that these lack of the knowledge of the fine points are displayed. I have always noticed that Western teams seem to make no use of their hands on defense.

Indeed, looking at two Western lines, you cannot tell which has the ball if you would judge by action. Where the Easterners use their hands to tear things up defense Westerners use the body charge as if they were on the offensive.

Yet those who have played against a man who was very strong in the arms and who knew how to use his hands on defense, will remember how hard it it to hold him playing a square game. Indeed you cannot play a square game and do it if he goes as far as the rules permit him.

Western bucks, as a rule, are little assistance to the line on defense and tackles, guards and centers are not active. We seem to have no centers like Lewis of Harvard, Thompson of Missouri, Gilbert of Pennsylvania, men who could get down on kicks and tackle on end runs as well as backs or end men.

In a word the West plunges blind on defense, does not look, does not see: each plays his man regardless of where the play is going. That is very bad football.

Mr. Chadwick is right. Regardless of what Vanderbilt did, or Carlisle did or anything figures can show those who have seen know that the West is weak on defense and that as long as she is the East must be regarded infinitely her superior in football.

So it seems that the Interscholastic League refused to write finis to the football career of Captain Finis Ernest of Smith Academy.

It reads like old times at home to peruse the Cincinnati newspaper recapitulations of the racing season and note how "this fellow will be a good riddance" and "how Judge Price might have gone a little farther in his inquisitions." All this reads like "The Memoirs of My Dead Life," by S. C. Martin.

President Murphy of the Cubs records himself as opposed to spring games between American and National League clubs. Fall games, too?

Coach McGugin of Vanderbilt says that now that his team "has shown itself to be among the top notchers of America, he does not see what chance St. Louis University would have with it." Michigan 10, Vanderbilt 4; Pennsylvania 17, Michigan 0; Swarthmore 4, Pennsylvania 0; Cornell 28, Swarthmore 0. How does McGugin get among the top notchers? Top or bottom, right or wrong, we've got money to say Cochems trims him.

It is entirely in every way an improfitable task to warn race horse men and pugilists that they are killing sheep which grow the golden fleece to be shorn as fast as the wool grows, but it may be said as a mere matter of passing interest that unless the intelligent blacksmith, Mr. Graney, the penetrant and prehensible Mr. Coffroth, the loquacious and smoquacious Mr. Britt and other soidisant promoters and big men of pugilism, out the way of the Golden Horn, are wise and allow things to simmer, boxing will lose its happy home in San Francisco.

They are cleaning up in the Aurean City. They have a Mayor and a Boss and several other political persons under indictment. They are talking of vigilance committees and are hot after the sports, who have, according to sports, made San Francisco a "good" town, though it has been my personal observation that it is the good town that attracts sports and not the sports the good town.

Being, as conducted in California, an illegal business, boxing, no doubt, will find itself drawn into the vortex of the maelstrom which promises to engulf graft and its beneficiaries in San Francisco. The corruption fund which was used to beat the anti-boxing bill last year came in for its share of publicity last spring. It is not dead yet. All these things considered, 'twould seem wisdomful that Britt, Coffroth, et al., would for the good of boxing, let things slide.

Will they do it?

Not as long as there is a dollar in sight today. Upon the other hand, we may expect a wild rush to get in and "cop" before the "blow off" comes. 'Twas ever thus. The worst enemies of sport, of racing, of boxing, have been the men to whom it was kindest, the men who have made money out of it, not the so-called "preachers" they all so liberally and unfairly abuse.

BOB HEDGES LEFT WAITING AT DOCK

Raven Boss Missed Steamship and Consequently Is Not on Bounding Billows.

Robert Lee Hedges, president of the Ravens, is not upon the ocean on his way to Japan for a vacation, as was reported, but instead is waiting at Portland for the next steamship to the Orient. Reports from Portland have it that on account of the heavy floods the train upon which the Ravens' boss was traveling reached Portland late and by the time Hedges had reached the dock the steamer had departed.

Mr. Hedges is now busily watching the clock while waiting time for the next boat to pull out and between times is telling Portland newspaper men how and why the playing season should be shortened and what a great club the St. Louis Ravens will be next season.

DEATH PROBABLY DUE TO ACCIDENT

Evidence Seems to Show That Charles Dittmann Fell Into Excavation.

WATER WAS IN THE HOLE

Abrasion on Head Thought to Have Been Caused by His Tumble.

The inquest over the body of Charles Dittmann, found in four feet of water in an excavation on the south side of a new bridge being constructed over Richland Creek, on Centerville avenue, Belleville, will be held Saturday night by Dr. E. M. Irwin, Coroner of St. Clair County.

The body was discovered by Irwin Reifschneider, who, with his father, J. Reifschneider, was on his way to work early Friday morning. The boy noticed a hat first and called his father's attention to it. The father saw the shoulder of a man protruding from the broken ice and water. Albert Buchmann and Harry Oughten happened by at the same time and assisted in taking the body from the water. The police were notified and the body was removed to an undertaking establishment, where it was kept until after the inquest.

The fact that there was a contusion on the back of the head and that the spot where the body was found is a lonely one, led to the idea of a possibility of foul play. The police investigated Dittmann's movements during the evening previous to his death and found that he had spent most of the time in saloons. He was in Stark's saloon, South Spring and Eighth streets, until 8:30 o'clock and from there went to Peter Lill's place on South Illinois street, where he remained until 10:45.

Going Away From Home.

In neither place did he exhibit any large amounts of money. The bartenders in both places say he only had a few cents—something less than a dollar. On leaving Lill's saloon Dittmann walked west on Fifth street, the opposite direction from his home, which was 306 East Sixth street.

That was the last seen of him alive. The Belleville police and the friends of the dead man are of the opinion that he fell in attempting to walk a 3½-foot plank walk that had been temporarily placed over the excavation on the south side of the bridge. They think the contusion on the back part of the head was caused by striking either a stone or heavy piece of timber.

There are two electric lights near the bridge. One is about 200 feet north and the other about 300 feet south. There was also a red light on a barrel at one end of the boards. The heavy rains had left about fout feet of water in the excavation, which was about seven feet deep. It is supposed that the force of the blow on the back of the head knocked the man senseless and left him powerless in the water.

Dittmann was a carpenter about 40 years of age and leaves a wife and six children. Thursday afternoon Dittmann had taken his tools to a hardware store on East Main street, where he had expected to go to work Friday.

The funeral will take place Sunday morning at 11 o'clock from the Dittmann home to the Walnut Hill Cemetery.

E. St. Louis News

Mrs. Josephine Ludwig has filed suit in the City Court asking the Court to confirm a sale of certain property from herself to her son, C. H. Ludwig Jr. She alleges that her husband, G. H. Ludwig, has been confined in the insane asylum at Anna for the past 25 years and is mentally incapable of signing the deed to the property with her. The suit is brought for the purpose of having the transfer declared valid without her husband's signature.

Henry Cohn filed suit in the City Court Saturday against the Campbell-Ried Western Sale Stables, a stockyards firm, for $20,300 damages. He alleges that last January he shipped 18 horses and four mules to East St. Louis and that the stable company had them attached and sold, and that his business and reputation was damaged thereby.

George Blue, 20 years old, and Miss Mary Patch of East St. Louis were married Friday night by Justice Brady. Blue was arrested Wednesday on complaint of Miss Patch and had been in jail since that time awaiting trial. The suit was dismissed after the ceremony was performed.

John Scannel has filed a suit in the City Court against the Terminal Railroad Association for $2000 damages. He alleges that while he was at work as a track walker Jan. 19, 1905, he was struck by an engine and permanently injured.

M. E. and P. J. Meyers have filed suit against the Southern Railway for $30,000 damages for property destroyed by fire. Six months ago fire destroyed the building occupied by them, and the stables, which adjoined the Southern Railway, at Fifteenth street and Walnut avenue. The suit alleges that the fire, which occurred near midnight, was caused by a spark from a locomotive.

Robert Wetzel has sued the Terminal Railroad for $2000 damages for personal injuries which he says he sustained while at work for the company.

The funeral of Charles Zellers, 31 years old, who died Thursday at his home, 616 Bond avenue, will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the family residence to Mount Hope Cemetery. He is a son-in-law of Samuel B. Mallnee, and is survived by his wife and one child. The funeral will be under the auspices of the Machinists' Union.

The funeral of E. H. Maxey, who was found dead near the French Village trestle of the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway Wednesday, was held Saturday morning to St. Peter's Cemetery. His brother in East St. Louis made arrangements for the funeral upon instructions from his mother in Birmingham, Ala.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Speers, 33 years old, wife of Frank Speers of 1129 Lake avenue, who died Friday at St. Mary's Hospital following an operation, will be held Monday at 9 a. m. from Sacred Heart Church to Mount Carmel Cemetery. She is survived by her husband.

TROLLEY COLLISION.

Slippery Rails Cause Accident in Which Five Are Hurt.

Slippery rails caused a street car collision at Euclid and McPherson avenues Saturday morning in which five persons were injured.

The wheels of a southbound Taylor avenue car, which were clamped tight by the air brake, slid on the wet rails and went bang into the side of the McPherson car. Several windows were smashed and the flying bits of glass struck many passengers.

Louisa Hammond of 2421 Goode avenue was cut about the face, John Eickham of 210 North Fourth street was cut about the face, George Henderson, conductor of the McPherson avenue car, was bruised about the body; Thomas Lydon, motorman of the Taylor avenue car, was cut on the face and hands by glass, and Joseph Cook, conductor of the same car, was cut on the face.

Indian Curios on View.

Indian curios and the products of Indian manufacture collected in St. Louis will be exhibited to the public at the Self-Culture Hall at 1832 Carr street on Monday from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. The exhibition will be free and it is said that many rare curios will be shown, comprising collections of many years. The exhibit will be in charge of Miss Mary Buckley, Mrs. D. W. Knesler and Miss E. Renard.

That particular thing which you couldn't find on your last shopping trip may be advertised today. It's worth looking!

LOCAL STOCKS HIGH, ACTIVE

Missouri-Lincoln Trust in Strong Demand at 2½ Points Advance.

BANK LIST IS QUIET

Improvement Is Noted in Bond List Inquiries and Sales.

The Saturday short session of the local Stock Exchange was fairly active in transactions and notable for advances in the bidding and asking prices of various stocks.

Missouri-Lincoln led the market in the bank and trust lists with 133½ bid and 135 asked for its shares. The contests for the small lots of the stock that changed hands were spirited and the purchasers were obliged to pay 134 for all that was sold. This is about 2½ points above what the stock sold for recently.

Kansas City Home Telephone stock is still advancing, the sales made Saturday being at 74¾. Holders were firm at 75 asked.

In the local miscellaneous list the second preferred stock of National Candy sold at 83 and Simmons Hardware common at 125.

The tractions market was fairly active, unchanged at 86⅞ for the bonds, with the preferred and common stocks firm and fractionall higher. Central Coal and Coke shares sold freely unchanged from Friday at 64½.

SHEEP—Receipts, 100. Market nominally steady.

Negro Scares Little Town.

Residents of Black Jack, St. Louis County, were terrorized Friday afternoon by a negro who, with cuts on his head and face, roamed about the village brandishing a knife, and yelling. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Olderworth and taken to Clayton Jail to be held for investigation as to the cause of his wounds. He told a Deputy Sheriff that he was Charles Carson of 2328 Chestnut street, and said he had been in a fight in which, he said, he had killed several men.

WHEAT UNCHANGED FOR THE DAY

Slight Decline Made at Opening and Recovered From Near the Close.

CORN ABOUT STEADY

Cash Demand Somewhat Better—December Oats Broke Half-Cent With May Steady.

Local wheat, after a day of apathetic trading and a very narrow range closed on a level with Friday's close, recovering near the end from a slight early decline. Corn closed slightly higher, 6⅛c lower, and oats ⅛c lower to a shade higher, the decline being in December option.

December wheat opened 1-16c lower at 72⅜c, declined to 72¼c and closed at 72⅜@72½c, Friday's close. May option opened unchanged at 77¼@⅜77⅜c, declined to 77⅛@77¼c and closed unchanged at 77¼@77⅜c.

December corn was unchanged all day at 40⅛c bid, ⅛c lower than Friday's close. May option opened unchanged at 41½c, and closed at 41½@41⅝c.

December oats opened ⅛c lower at 33⅛c, declined to offers at 32½@32⅝c and closed with bids at that figure. May option closed a shade higher at 34⅝c. Liverpool wheat closed unchanged for the day. Berlin wheat closed unchanged, Budapest ⅛c higher. Paris closed ⅛c lower for wheat and ½c to 1c lower for flour. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged.

The local market was dead dull and absolutely featureless. Very little business was transacted in the pit, which was entirely deserted during most of the session. Receipts, both locally and in the Northwest, were light, those in the latter region being 623 cars less than those of the same day last year, and conditions pointed to a bullish market at the opening, which, however, was hindered by the lack of speculation and the general apathetic conditions locally. Cables from Liverpool exerted no influence over prices, coming unchanged all day. At the opening a slightly easire feeling was caused by a fractional decline at Minneapolis, where 452 less cars were received than on the corresponding day in 1905. Broomhall's estimate of Monday's statistics was also bullish, this being unheeded also. Under some slight selling at the opening, prices sagged about ⅛@¼c, most of the session. Near the end Minneapolis rallied and advanced ⅛c to ½c, causing trade in the local market to pick up slightly, prices settling back to about a level with Friday's final figures, where they closed. On the whole, it was a very quil and listless session, with trading about as light as it could be without absolute stagnation. Wheat and flour clearances were 243,000 bu.

Corn was again very dull and featureless, but withal had a steady tone. May closing a shade higher. December down ⅛c. Receipts were light and cables were quite strong.

Corn clearances were 97,000 bu.

There was quite heavy selling of long oats by tired local holders, the December future getting the pressure from this source. All of the private wire houses and smaller receiving concerns have resting orders to buy May oats and there was a fair business done around 34⅝c for May. December broke a half cent, but was later bid for at the lower level, with no sales resulting.

An upward cash demand existed in wheat, corn and oats, prices being a shade firmer. A good cash demand was reported from Minneapolis and Chicago. Receipts were very light.

Some explanation of the condition in which Minneapolis millers have found their recent arrivals of winter wheat from Kansas is seen in the special reports appearing in the Kansas City papers. A special in the Journal from Great Bend shows that wheat remaining unthreshed in Burton and Stafford counties is badly damaged. Threshers report that the top of each stack has to be pulled off and only about one-third of the remainder is in shape to be put through the machine. In many cases it is sprouted badly and roots grown down through the stack. The wheat obtainable is very poor quality.

The movement of spring wheat continues disappointing at all primary markets, but must not be taken as an indication of an over-estimated crop, but largely as representing a holding disposition on the part of farmers, and of a large absorption of wheat by interior millers. Elevator people in Chicago say they will deliver their wheat the first part of December, one house alone having two million bushels. Close students of the cereal situation the world over say there is bound to be a large export demand for American wheat in the next seven months and the prices are sure to go higher. Deducting the durum from the spring wheat crop, there is left apparently about 140,000,000 bushels. Minneapolis mills grind from sixty-five to seventy million, mills outside of Minneapolis in the three states now grind nearly as much. This calls for some 120 to 140 million bushels. The amount used for seed and other purposes on farms is estimated at 20,000,000. It is readily seen, therefore, that the entire crop of spring wheat is needed for domestic purposes within the three states, with nothing to go out, unless an equal amount is shipped in from outside states to take its place.

Broomhall estimates that the world's shipments of wheat for Monday next will be about 10,400,000 bu, of which quantity Europe will take about 9,200,000 bu. The actual shipments last week were 10,512,000 bu and those of a year ago, 13,312,000 bu. Arrivals of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom during the past week will aggregate about 4,000,000 bu. Predicted that there will be moderate changes in the quantity of breadstuffs on passage.

The shipments from India this week amount to 432,000 bu, against 560,000 bu last week and 776,000 bu a year ago.

Armour's Argentine cable reads: "Wheat harvest proceeding favorably, quality better than last year and heavier. Weather favorable for harvesting."

Australian wheat shipments for the week were 232,000 bu, against 160,000 bu last week and 224,000 bu last year.

Following are the Minneapolis wheat stocks: No. 1 hard, 371,853 bu; No. 1 Northern, 885,872; total all grades, 1,851,058; decrease for the week, 69,233; last year, No. 1 hard, 265,563; No. 1 Northern, 3,706,206; total, all grades, 5,689,302; increase for week, 221,714.

MONEY WITHDRAWN FROM STOCK MARKET

Financial Influence Is Against Railroad Stock Speculation—Movement Toward Financing Railroad Coal Properties Attracting Attention of Strong Money Sources—Saturday Stock Market Closed Low.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The stock market continued in the decline almost to the close, which for most of the leading trading stocks was practically at bottom figures for the day. This was in the face of an admittedly favorable bank statement and with better money conditions reported from all sections of the country.

Some significant comment is made about Great Northern, which has declined almost 15 points since the ore deal was announced, becoming the leader of the market in place of Standard Oil. Most commission houses are said to be skeptical on this point, especially as the curb market today showed a slight recovery in Standard Oil. Something of the kind is said to be in sight when Great Northern gets its rights on the ore land deal.

One of the exceptions to the decline today is M., K. & T. securities. Buying for foreign account sustained these and better prices for both common and preferred are freely predicted.

One of the current reports Saturday is that inside interests of B. & O. Railroad are in a contest with Hocking Valley line inside interests for control of the Columbus and Hocking Valley Coal and Iron Co. From another quarter the report is that great interests are now working around to the completion of a billion dollar coal company to take over most of the Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio and West Virginia coal properties recently identified as railroad holdings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The opening of the stock market for the Saturday short session was irregular, with tendency to decline in sympathy with London.

The industrial end of the room still has the best of the situation and more activity is looked for there than in the railroad list.

COTTON.

Reported daily for the Post-Dispatch by D. R. Francis, Bro. & Co., 214 N. 4th st.

New York opening: Jan., 2 up at 10.28c; March, 6 up at 10.49c; May, 9 up at 10.62c; Dec. 2 up to 10.15c.

Liverpool closed steady, 6 to 8 up: Jan.-Feb., 5.68½d; March-April, 5.70d; May-June, 5.73½d.

Liverpool cables were dull for spot and 10 up for middling; sales, 4000 bales; receipts, 1000 bales; no American.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Cotton opened firm, 2 to 9 points advance, which was better than due on the cables, and business was active, with the South buying quite freely and sending bullish telegrams, especially as to the spot situation reporting great firmness, with offerings of good cotton growing scarcer. After the initial bulge prices sagged, losing a large part of the early advance, but quickly rallied. There has been a marked change of sentiment as to the size of the crop since the ginners' report was issued, and there are only a few who stick to the 13,000,000-bale estimate so prevalent of late. The general belief being that the total will be less than 12,500,000 bales, which, with the big consumption, will under no circumstances be burdensome and some very good judges believe that the price will continue to harden and that 10 cents will look cheap after the turn of the year.

HARRIMAN HAS A SCORN OF WALL ST.

He Says He Will Not Interfere With Dreams of the Speculators.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—E. H. Harriman has come back to town with an apparent scorn of Wall street, which will surprise his friends, who remember him as a floor trader in 1870, when as a specialist in the old stock of the C. C. & I. R. R. he gained the sobriquet of "The Specialist in Coffee, Cakes and Ice Cream." He was asked about the report that St. Paul and Union Pacific are to be combined under his management, and replied:

"Oh, those speculators in Wall street! How they do imagine things! I will not interfere with their dreams. We people are responsible for the physical operation of the Union Pacific property, not what they do in Wall street. We ought not to be responsible for their imaginative stories, nor should we be called upon to affirm or deny them."

When asked if it was true that he had been in conference while out West with J. T. Harahan, he said:

"I have not thought of the Illinois Central while on my trip. The Illinois Central stands by itself."

For several months the public has been awaiting the annual report of the Union Pacific Railroad, and report has it that it has been held up to further speculative schemes. Mr. Harriman seemed pained at this suggestion.

"Why, I thought the report was already out," he said. "It doesn't have to await any word of mine. It rests with the printers when they can finish it."

Mr. Harriman spoke in boundless admiration of the West and its great prospects. He said the speech he made at the dinner of the Commercial Club of Kansas City was one of the hardest jobs he had had in a long while.

"Harder than running a railroad?" was asked.

"No; that's the hardest job I know of," he said.

LETTERS FROM CHILDREN ABOUT THE BEAR CUBS

Inclosed you will find a penny for my contribution to help buy the Teddy bears. I am a little girl attending the Columbia School and am interested in the bears.
BEE BEE DOWN,
4966 Lotus avenue.

Inclosed please find 2½ cents (car ticket). I walked to work this morning so I could contribute to the bear fund. I am a messenger for the Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. and don't want to see the cute little bears killed, and hope they will soon be in Forest Park. I spent my lunch time watching them in your window. I would like to have them named Teddy and Alice.
WILLIE SHEAHAN,
2500 Sullivan avenue.

I inclose 1 cent for the baby bears. I suggest that you name them Clark and Giles.
J. T. K.

Here is 25 cents to help buy the bears.
CATHERINE AND LOUISE HOLLY,
3930 Sullivan avenue.

Inclosed find 10 cents to save the little bears. I think Teddy and Alice good names. I saw the little bears the first day they arrived in St. Louis. The littlest bear licked my mamma's glove. I think them fine little bears.
WILLIAM LESTER MARPEL,
5519 Wells avenue.

I have had a "Teddy" bear ever since I was a year old, and I love all bears for its sake. Here is 25 cents for the cute little cubs. Please name them Jack and Jill and don't let them get eaten up, so we can see them in the Zoo next summer.
NOEL POEPPING, 4 years old,
SISTER MARJORIE.

I send you 5c to help buy the little bears. I would like you to call the boy bear Yankee Doodle and the girl bear Dixie.
LOUISE WILLS.

I send in 5 cents to help keep the little bears from being killed. I would like the boy bear called Freedom, girl Liberty.
BESSIE WILLS.

I seen a picture of the little bears. They remind me so much of my dog Woolly. I would like to see them at the Zoo. I would like them named Woolly and Beauty. I enclose 25 cents.
NORMA STOCKE,
2707 Ann avenue.

I have read of the little cubs in the paper and will send a dime to help get them for the Zoo. I would like to have them named Romeo and Juliet or Jack and Jill.
MELBA BAILEY, 4355 West Belle place.

I noticed in your paper last evening that you had two little bears to kill and I contribute 15 cents towards sending them out to the Forest Park Zoo, where I and my sisters can see them. Please name the bears after my pony, Black Prince and the other Alice Roosevelt.
WILLIE CORNER,
4157 Westminster place.

We cheerfully give the small sum of 25 cents in order to help pay for the cubs to be bought by the children of St. Louis for the Forest Park Zoo. We would gladly consent to have them named Teddy and Alice.
GEORGE KEARNEY, age 13,
JEANNETTE KEARNEY, age 10,
1901 Bacon street.

Inclosed please find 5 cents for bear fund. Please name the bears Penny and Kid, as the kids' pennies are to pay for them. Would like them in park Zoo next summer.
FRANK YAGLA.

Katherine and Jessie send their quarters to help buy Teddy and Alice bear. We got the money from grandpa.
K. AND J. AHRENS.

Inclosed is 10 cents for the little bears. I would like to see them in Forest Park next summer. I think Teddy and Tabby would be nice names for them.
MADGE WALTON, 10 years old,
3415 Olive street.

Inclose 25 cents and hope that you will succeed in getting the cubs.
OTTO SCHULZ,
2206 University street.

I will inclose 10 cents for the dear little baby bears. I would like very much to see them, but can't see them this winter. Will see them next summer. Be good to them and name them Romeo and Juliet. We always did think the Post-Dispatch was first in everything.
EDWARD DEAN YANCY, 13 years,
3304 Magnolia avenue.

Ten cents inclosed for the bear fund. I propose "Bear" and "Forbear" for the names to be given.
JAMES HOUSTON WITHERSPOON,
4538 Maryland avenue.

I am sending a nickel for the little bears. I would name them Bobby and Topsy.
LYLE T. JOHNSTON, Webster Groves.

I would like to see the baby bears you write about and will contribute 10 cents in the hope that they will find a home in the Zoo, and I can go and see them next summer.
ELLEN GUMP, 12 years old,
574 North Twenty-fourth street.

Inclosed please find 10 cents for the bear fund. I think Chub and Chubbie would be nice names for them. Wishing you success in purchasing them, I am,
MILDRED PFEFFER, Lebanon, Ill.

We inclose 20 cents. Name them Nick and Alice.
GERTRUDE AND MARGARET ARNOLD,
4535 McMillan avenue.

I enclose 5 cents to save the little bears' lives because the Lord made them to have freedom just the same as he made us to live. When I go out to the park next summer I hope I may see the little bears and that they have a nice place to sleep and that they have plenty of food to eat. I would like them to be called Thunder and Lightning.
JAMES WILLS, 3325 Lucas avenue.

Please inclosed find 10 cents to pay for little bears. Would like to go out and see them next summer.

3144 Chouteau avenue.
Call them Jack and Stella.

Here is 14 cents to help pay for the little bears. Will send some more soon.
GLADYS AND ROBERT Mc,
Granite City, Ill.

Inclosed you will find 2 pennies from two little girls. Name them Jule and Ida.
MAGGIE DWYER AND LIZZIE RODEMACHER, 1534 Biddle street.

Inclosed find 10 cents to give the little bears a home. If they were mine I would call them Jack and Jill.
JOHN LUECKERATH.

I read about the two little baby bears and think they should not be killed. In this letter you will find 10 cents to help give the bears a home in Forest Park Zoo. I am 12 years old and go to the Visitation School.
MARGUERITE DAILY,
4284 St. Ferdinand avenue.

Father has shown me the pictures of the bear cubs, and has read me all about them. I want to help buy them and am therefore sending you 10 cents. I hope some time to see the bears at the park. I think Teddy and Alice would be nice names for the little bears. I am only 6 years old, but I wrote this letter on father's typewriter all by myself.
RUTH CATLIN DANA.

Inclosed find 5 cents, all that I can spare. I think that it would be just awful to kill the little bears. I very often go to the parks in summer and take my little friend, Luther Scott, who loves to look at the animals. If I can get Luther to give something I will do so. Hoping that you will get the amount, I remain,
SAMMIE D. PATTERSON,
321 East Broadway, East St. Louis.

I am a little boy, 6 years old. I am sick now, but I will see them next summer at the Zoo. I inclose 10 cents for the cubs. Please name them Nick and Alice.
LESTER J. HODGES, 2547 Dodier street.

I, like a great many other little boys, would like to see the little bears saved, so I can have the pleasure of visiting them at the Zoo. Inclosed please find 5 cents. If they were mine I would call one Alice and the other Teddy.
CLIFFORD HUELSICK, aged 12,
2540 Palm street.

I am sending you 5 cents to help buy the baby bears for Forest Park Zoo, and I wish their names to be Alice and Teddy. I hope to see them next summer out at Forest Park.
OPAL HUELSICK, 10 years old,
2540 Palm street.

I'm sending you 5 cents to help the baby bears for the Forest Park Zoo and I wish their names to be Virginia and Eugene. I hope to see these two little bears at Forest Park next summer.
BELMONT HENSIEK, 2131 Fair avenue.

Please find inclosed 20 cents as our contribution to the bear fund. Hope to see them in Forest Park next summer. Would like their names Alice and Teddy.
KENNETT FUGIT, age 8 years,
EMMA FUGIT, age 6 years,
426 Bowen street.

Inclosed please find 10 cents contribution to bear fund from myself and sister. We wish the bears names to be Teddy and Alice.
GLEN JOHNSON,
HELEN JOHNSON,
531 North Twenty-second street.

Inclosed find 10 cents for bear fund. I would like to see them in the Zoo. I go often with my teacher to the park. My Teddy bear sends 1 cent. Name them Jack and Jill.
JULIA HOLSTEIN, age 5.

I inclose 10 cents for bear fund. I would like to see them in the Zoo. My Teddy bear sends 1 cent. Name them Teddie and Nellie.
WILLIAM OAKE, age 4.

I am sending you 5 cents to help buy those cute little bears and hoping that every little boy and girl will help buy them, too. I would not like to see them made into mincemeat for somebody's Christmas dinner. I would like you to call them Jack and Jill.
KENDRICK CAIN, 2115 O'Fallon street.

My little sister and myself send 10 cents for the little bears. I hope the children will all send something so we can have them in the park and then we can go and see them when the weather gets nice. We want them called Jack and Sport. We are 10 and 5 years old.
MARY LOU BUCKINGHAM,
ANNIE BUCKINGHAM,
6025 Loretta street.

Inclosed please find 15 cents to help pay for the little bears, from R., W. and E., three little boys who would suggest that you name the bears Hans and Gretchen.

Inclosed find 10 cents from my little brother Teddy and myself for the baby bear fund. Name them Teddy and Alice.
JOHN McKINLEY HENDRICKS,
4307 McRee avenue.

I have teased my two brothers, James and Godfrey, to help me raise 25 cents to buy the two little bears. I had to let the boys name them. They want to name them Tom and Tomboy, which I think are pretty good names for bears. If you don't get enough, we will try and raise another quarter.
AURILLA BRIGHAM, 2101 Blendon place.

I saw in the Post-Dispatch about the baby bears and could not bear the thought of having them killed. You will find inclosed 5 cents to help to put them in the Zoo at Forest Park. My name for them is Dan and Sue. I am 8 years old. My name is MARIE PERRY, 3942 Folsom avenue.

Inclosed please find 17 cents for the bear fund. Please name them Alice and Teddy.
CARL OBERMEYER,
2000 Benton street.

Inclosed please find 10 cents for the bear fund. They are too cute to be killed.
CLARENCE SCOVILL,
CECIL HUBLER.

We inclose 10 cents for the two little cubs. We think that Nick and Alice would be nice names for the two little bear cubs.
JACK AND ROLAND FRITZ,
2138 Benton street.

Inclosed please find 10 cents to help buy the little bears, to save them from the butchers; we would like them named Francis and Louisiana.
SAMMIE AND FANNIE INKLEY,
4032 Gratiot street.

I send 5 cents toward buying the baby bears; Teddy and Alice for me. I am 9 years old.
BENSON WITTMANN,
3414 South Jefferson avenue.

Inclosed find 20 cents for the bear fund. I think they should be named Post and Patch, in honor of the Post-Dispatch.
LILLIAN HATTENHORST,
3728 Palm street.

Inclosed please find 25 cents for the poor little bears. I think I would name them Teddy and Louisiana, in honor of our President and the World's Fair.
CHARLES RUESING, 2348 Rutger street.

Inclosed you will find 10 cents for the little bears that you want the children to pay for. I am very fond of bears. I have a large Teddy bear that mamma bought for me and I have lots of pleasure with it. I have asked mamma to buy me the two little bears that you have, but she is afraid they will scratch me. I would like to have you name one of them after me (Etta). I can hardly wait until next summer, when I can go out to the park and feed them. Your little friend,
ETTA PASLEY,
4362 Laclede avenue.

I send 10 cents to help buy the bears. I would like to have them called Maud and Si. I hope to see them at the park soon.
RICHARD HARRIS,
ALICE HARRIS,
4852 Maffitt avenue.

I am only a little girl 10 months old, but I know I will be glad when I grow a little older to see the pretty little baby bears in Forest Park, so I am sending you 25 cents to help pay for them, together with the other little children of St. Louis. Name the cunning little bears Jack and Jill.
JANE ARLINE WEISELS,
4548 Westminster place.

I read in the Post-Dispatch paper about the two little bears. I want them brought to Forest Park. I will give 10 cents and my little cousin 5 cents. I want them named Brun and Brunies.
MARION CAUDLE,
2220 McCausland avenue.

I am sending you 10 cents to help buy the baby bears for Forest Park Zoo, because me and my little brother Bud will be pleased to see them in the park next summer.
NELLIE AND BUD CHATWICK,
1508 North Spring avenue.

I feel so sorry for the poor little bears and want them to have a good home in the park. This 10 cents is out of my bank, and please be sure to put the babies where I can see them.
ALICE BISHOP,
2812 Locust street.

Please find inclosed 10 cents to help pay for the baby bears. I would like you to name them Teddy and Roose.
MASTER ROY KELLER, 9 years old,
1021 Park avenue.

Inclosed please find 13 cents to help buy the little bears for the Forest Park Zoo. I would like their names to be Eddie and Nellie.
KATIE McCONNELL, 2738 Clark avenue.

Inclosed please find 20 cents for the little bears. We are 9 and 6 years old.
JOHNNIE AND WILLIE BURGMANN,
2618 South Eleventh street.

I have read about the two little bears and would like to help buy them for the Zoo in Forest Park. I am only a little girl and I have never been there before, and I hope when I get there I will see the poor little bears. Inclosed find 5 cents.
MYRTLE BROWN, 313 Trudeau street.

Inclosed find 10 cents to buy the two little bears, as I want to see them have a home. I think Phyllis and Heinie would be real nice names.
JOHN McCORMACK,
5119 Wicklow place.

Here is a little help to get the two small bears at the Forest Park Zoo. I inclose 11 cents.
EVELYN GRAHAM, age 11 years,
1817 La Salle street.

Here is 10 cents for the baby bear fund. Of course, one will have to be called Teddy; the question is, what to call the other? I suggest Tootsie.
STELLA REDDING,
Age 7 years; 3627 Cass avenue.

Inclosed please find 10 cents for the little bears. I would like to have them named Teddy and Alice.
CARL KRUSE, age 6 years,
2727 Wyoming street.

I'm sending two dimes to help buy those little bears. One dime is from me and one from baby brother. "Baby brother" isn't the real article, he's just my big cotton doll, but I thought he'd like to help buy the bears, too. I want the bears sent to my home, but pop says they're to go to the Zoo, so I'll have to put up with that. I'm only 2½ years old and made my money selling the Post-Dispatch at 5 cents a copy. Name the bears Jack and Jill.
DOROTHY MAY LINDER,
3321 Park avenue.

I saw in Tuesday night's Post-Dispatch the picture of the cute little bears and I send you 5 cents to help buy them, so I can go out to Forest Park and see them often. I hope other little girls and boys will help, too. I think Jack and Jill are nice names for them.
CELESTE ABEEL,
4854 St. Louis avenue.

I inclose 10 cents for the bear cubs. I choose name for bears, Alice and Teddy.
CHARLES RUGE, 2923 Sheridan avenue.

Inclosed please find 10 cents for the support of the little orphan bears, that we may make them a home in Forest Park. I would propose Teddy and Alice for names.
RUBY EVERTS, age 11 years,
3304 Rutger street.

Inclosed you will find 10 cents to help buy the little bears for the Zoo, so I can see them next summer and wish all other boys and girls will give some pennies.
CARL WEBER,
2113 South Jefferson avenue.

Inclosed please find 10 cents for the bear fund.
QUEEN REPPY,
2630 Keokuk street.
P. S.—I think it would be very nice to name one Prince and the other Princess.

We want to help save the little bears, and send 10 cents toward the contribution. We would like to name them Teddy and Alice.
ESTHER ROBERTS, 8 years,
CARRIE ROBERTS, 5 years old.

Inclosed find 10 cents for the little bears. How sorry I feel for them! They have lost their mamma and I have just lost mine and I am sorry for them. My heart aches. Please call them Teddy and Alice.
RENN GLAVIS.

I am a little Alton boy, 8 years old. I will gladly send 10 cents to help the St. Louis children save the little bears' lives. Please name them Buster and Nancy.
MITCHEL M. PETRUZZA,
425 Jefferson avenue, Alton, Ill.

Find inclosed 10 cents to save the lives of the little bears. I would beg you not to call one Teddy, because he don't like bears and he might come and kill them with his big knife. My age is 7 years.
W. J. BRYAN DUMONT,
Dupo, Ill.

Inclosed you will please find 10 cents for bear fund. Please name them Dave and Frances.

Plays the "Rose of Wicklow" in "The Shamrock and Rose"

MISS BEULAH LURTON ROSEBERRY IN "THE SHAMROCK AND ROSE."

Miss Beulah Lurton Roseberry Is Emerald Stock Co.'s Leading Lady.

"The Shamrock and Rose," an Irish military love drama, is the title of the play to be presented by the Emerald Stock Company at the Century Theater next Sunday night. Beulah Lurton Roseberry, the talented emotional actress, will essay the role of "the Rose of Wicklow" in this offering. She has been seen here in the great emotional roles of Camille, Ophelia, Portia, Maryland and Juliet, and has won a high reputation. Miss Roseberry will be supported Mr. M. Cunningham, the sweet Irish tenor, and a strong company. Miss Nellie Parr, late of the Theater Royal, Dublin, will sing some rare old Irish ballads during the course of the performance.

LIBRARY BARS A MARK TWAIN BOOK

Pictures in "Eve's Diary" Shock Worcester (Mass.) Women.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 24.—Mark Twain's book, "Eve's Diary," was barred from the Charlton Free Public Library because a woman attendant and a trustee were shocked by the pictures. Among the 100 books delivered was "Eve's Diary." Mrs. H. L. Carpenter, an employe, scanned the book from cover to cover.

There are etchings on every left-hand page—50 in all—and Mrs. Carpenter looked at them with varying emotions. After one good, long final look she took the book to Trustee Frank C. Wakefield. He also took a number of looks at the etchings, which depict Eve in all kinds of summery costumes fashioned after the styles of her day and climate.

One in particular which showed Eve recumbent on a rock engaged his attention and decided him to bar the book and call the other trustees, Rev. Geo. O. Jenness and Lewis A. McIntyre. They will decide finally about the book, but Wakefield has no doubt it will be sent back.

One picture shows Eve skipping through the bushes unrestrained, but not at all afraid. The bushes do not seriously cut off the view of Eve. Another noticeable etching shows Adam and Eve under the tree of knowledge, with Eve in the act of handing Adam a lemon.

Business Corner Sold.

C. M. McDonald, secretary of the Griffin Real Estate Co., closed the sale of the vacant business property at the northwest corner of Delmar boulevard and Academy avenue, with lot 60x170 feet to an alley, for $12,000. This is $200 per front foot. It was sold for Henry Studniczka to Louis Cella and James Curotto, who will improve the property.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.
